Rogers Hopes Byrd Finds Some Land for Golf Courses

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 17.—You have been reading about Commander Byrd's expedition. Well, he is starting next week.

That fellow looks like he makes the best and most thorough preparations to do anything of any person I ever heard of. If he fails, there is no use for anyone else trying.

It will break the politicians' hearts to see this bunch of men leaving before election. They wouldn't care what happened to 'em if they only voted for their side before leaving.

Let's hope they find some land, for we are going to be mighty short of golf courses before long, especially since we started allowing the poor to play.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

No announcement of recent years will be received with as much regret by the pupils, friends and patrons of the New Castle public schools as that which was presented to the board last night, stating that Prof. LaVerne E. Irvine, head of the band and orchestra instruction in the schools had resigned. Prof. Irvine has a number of offers for bigger jobs, and plans to accept one of them. Since Prof. Irvine came to the New Castle schools some years ago, progress in school band and orchestra work has been notable. He has developed numerous bands and orchestras in the high school that ranked with the best in the country, and his ability has long been recognized here. It is certainly a matter of deep regret that the schools are to lose a leader of such unusual ability and genius for organization and development. It will be difficult to fill the vacancy.

Judging from the response to the item in this column of yesterday there certainly are a large number of New Castle residents who are being annoyed with howling dogs that are kept tied up in backyards on property of neighbors. This is a nuisance that should not have to be tolerated. Owners of these dogs should see to it that they are taken to the country or somewhere where thew will not be a neighborhood nuisance. Keeping a howling dog in a town backyard is no commendable program for any citizen.

Some idea of the need that is being filled by the opening of public tennis courts can be gained by the use that is being made of the courts laid out on Boyles field. Long before eight o'clock this morning the courts were in use, and they have been in use during almost all the daylight hours since being opened. More tennis courts are needed about the city.

Thousands of New Castle citizens will take advantage of the opportunity to inspect the new banking buildings and quarters that are to be opened here on Saturday. Both the First National Bank of Lawrence County, which recently completed erection of a new six story bank building, and the enlarged banking quarters of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company will be open for the first public inspection on Saturday Both of these new banking homes are of metropolitan proportions and mean much to the progress of New Castle.

Yesterday was colored day at Cascade park. Hundreds of colored folks attended the gathering and many car loads came in from Youngstown and other nearby cities.

Paw Newc notices the old story of children running across the street in front of passing cars. Then the motorist is to blame for something that is not his fault. The city has sufficient playgrounds that children need not be playing out in the streets.

New Castle is free from contagion, observes Pa Newc. If you have ever noticed, there is rarely much contagion in the city or even in the entire county. Health booklets issued by the State Department of Health show this district to be away at the bottom of the list as far as diseases are concerned. Perhaps it will be a health resort someday!

Business is picking up, say the milk men. Despite the fact that people do have to buy milk if times are hard, they will go away during the summer months and that means an increase of supply. As school time approaches, the vacationers start straggling home again to get the kiddies ready for the opening day and the following many months.

A new one happened up at the po-

Absolution Granted To Trapped Victims By Priest Prior To Fatal Plunge

(International News Service)

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 17.—Blinded by fire, his clothes ablaze, a priest stood on his burning gasoline launch in Lake Lavigne, and, crucifix in hand, granted absolution to five others of his faith and then plunged with them into the water, from which only one was to emerge alive a few minutes later.

The five who were drowned were: the Rev. Fr. J. B. Dubuc, Lavigne, parish priest; Miss Leonie Sylvestre, his sister, of Sturgeon Falls, and Mrs. Albert Lafreniere and her children, Marc, one month old, and Claude, three.

Recover Bodies

Albert Lafreniere barely had strength to reach a small island after Claude had slipped from his benumber arms when close to shore. All the bodies, with the exception of Miss Sylvestre, had been recovered today. Mrs. Lafreniere was clasping Marc

Six Lives Lost In Southern Storms

Property Damage In Carolinas Is Estimated At Over Six Millions

(International News Service)

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 17.—With the loss of six lives and property damage estimated at millions of dollars, North Carolina today was recovering from floods and storms which have swept the state during the past few days.

Two persons were killed in a tornado which struck Ashley Heights near Southern Pines, yesterday and four others have died as the result of drowning in streams in western North Carolina.

Most damage was done in Western North Carolina where rivers and creeks already swollen as the result of torrential rains of last week burst out of their banks. Many homes and other structures were swept away.

The waters of the Swannanoa, Broad, Catawba and Yadkin rivers which caused most of the trouble in Western Carolina were reported to be receding today and unless there are more rains it was felt that the worst of the flood was over.

Train service between Asheville and Salisbury, discontinued Wednesday because of washouts will be restored late today, Southern Railway officials said. It will be several days before traffic on several state highways leading into Asheville can be restored on account of large sections of them being washed away.

Ashley Heights five miles east of Southern Pines was being cleared of debris as the result of a tornado which struck it yesterday, killing two and injuring a score when their homes were blown down. The tornado was accompanied by rain which reached the proportions of a cloudburst and much damage was done to crops especially the peach orchards.

KELLOGG SAILS SATURDAY TO SIGN ANTI-WAR TREATY

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Secretary of State Kellogg leaves today for New York to sail tomorrow for France to sign the anti-war treaty. Fourteen nations will join with the United States as original signers, and several other countries have indicated they would adhere later.

Before returning Kellogg will visit Ireland to repay the visit here of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State. He will remain two days in Ireland.

Kellogg's desk was cleared of all important problems with the signing of arbitration and conciliation treaties with Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

PUBLIC TO INSPECT NEW BANKING HOMES

New Castle and Lawrence county citizens will have an opportunity on Saturday of inspecting two magnificent banking homes that have recently been completed here.

Both the First National Bank of Lawrence County, and the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company have announced that their new banking quarters will be open for inspection of the public on this date.

Thousands of citizens will avail themselves of this opportunity it is certain, for the new institutions are most attractive. They are ultra-modern, of metropolitan proportions, and provide banking houses in New Castle that are not eclipsed anywhere for appointments and conveniences.

The First National Bank of Lawrence County, at Mercer and Washington streets, is located in the fine new six story building that has been in the course of construction for a year or more. The Lawrence Savings and Trust Company banking quarters are in the enlarged building of that organization, on Washington street. A seven story addition was recently added to this building which gave almost double the amount of ground floor space for the banking quarters, in addition to making the office building one of 150 or more rooms and suites, one of the largest offices buildings in this end of the state.

Both of these buildings are a wonderful asset to the business area of New Castle, and a fine reflection of confidence and faith in New Castle, for they are built with the idea of future expansion and development in view.

Hoover Begins Journey To East

Republican Nominee Plans To Discuss More Specific Issues Shortly

NO BARNSTORMING TOUR IS PLANNED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ENROUTE WITH HOOVER TO LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Ending a political vacation to take up the serious business of running for the presidency, Herbert Hoover was on his way back to Washington today to direct his own campaign.

The Republican nominee let it be known, as he left his Stanford University home, that he intends to seek the advice of all groups within the Republican party but that on important matters, he will make his own decisions. He has conducted his campaign thus far on that basis and he will continue it on the same lines. He has determined upon a "clean" campaign, devoid of personalities and free of demagoguery.

Specific Issues.

Hoover placed a list of specific issues before the people in his acceptance speech. He gave a detailed explanation of his farm relief program and he discussed prohibition at some length. On some other issues, he touched but lightly due to the lack of time. These he will explain at greater length in future speeches but each

Prof. Irvine To Take New Post

High School Band And Orchestra Leader Presents His Resignation

BOARD MEMBERS EXPRESS REGRET

PROF. LAVERNE IRVINE.

After six years of successful service to the New Castle public schools, La Verne Irvine, director of music for the senior and junior high schools has resigned. His resignation was presented Thursday evening when the school board met and came as an entire surprise.

While the resignation was accepted by the board it was done so only after the unanimous regret of the board had been expressed. Since he first came to New Castle, orchestral and band music in the New Castle schools have been on the upgrade. When he came the high school orchestra and band had met with indifferent success.

Made Fine Record.

Before his first year was up he had made a decided improvement in both organizations. Under his tutelage the New Castle Senior High School band

Gene Tunney Is Given Tributes At His Sailing

Flowers, Telegrams And Gifts Greet Tunney As He Boards Mauretania

JOSEPHINE LAUDER SENDS HER LOVE

Tunney Going To Ireland For Tailteann Games; Plans For Walking Tour

(International News Service)

ABOARD THE S. S. MAURETANIA AT SEA, Aug. 17—(Signed) Polly."

Gene Tuney was happy aboard the Cunard Liner Mauretania today as he read and reread a radiogram which ended that way.

'It didn't sound like a love message as it was received in staccato dots and dashes in the Mauretania's radio room but one glance at the retired heavyweight champion's beaming smile as he read the brief message was enough to assure an onlooker that Miss Mary Josephine (Polly) Lauder, his $50,000,000 fiancee, still loved Gene and had said it with static.

Heeney Sends Telegram.

A deluge of flowers, gifts and telegrams greeted Tunney aboard ship. Among the wires was one from Tom Heeney, whom Tunney defeated in his last fight and who married shortly afterwards.

"Having taken the plunge myself" Heeney wired, "I can anticipate the happiness in store for you." The Heeney's sail on their honeymoon today.

Twenty miles out at Sandy Hook, a small English Avian biplane circled over the Mauretania and Fred Darius Benham dropped a wreath on deck almost at Tunney's feet from his friend Charles V. Bob Capitalist.

It was inscribed "For Gene from Charley Bob." Gene picked the wreath up and waved it at the airman.

No so breath taking as Tunney's reception at the dock but just as cordial was the welcome given him by his fellow passengers. Among those with whom he struck up an immediate acquaintance are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Durant, the latter a daughter of E. F. Hutton, capitalist.

According to his present plans, Tunney will upon landing go to Dublin to attend the Tailteann games as the guest of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State and John McCormack the tenor. He will then return to England where he will join John Thornton Wilder, novelist and proceed to the much heralded walking tour of Europe.

Efforts in England to match Tunney with the non-retired George Bernard Shaw have not yet been completely successful.

Pennington Stands Firm

Is Unmoved By Storm Of Political Gossip Stirred Up At Pittsburgh

SAYS ATTEMPTS ARE TO LOWER MORALE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—While a storm of political gossip and conjecture whirled about his head, John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for western Pennsylvania and West Virginia calmly went about his work today, adhering to his policy to "saw wood and say nothing."

Recurring reports that there was a conspiracy afoot to force a "promotion" or transfer out of this district for Pennington found the prohibition administrator in a humorous mood. While he feels an attempt is being made to lower the morale of his department with rumors of impending changes here, Pennington said he feels these attempts will fail.

Reports current here were that John M. Morin, retiring congressman from a Pittsburgh district, was to be recommended as Pennington's successor. Morin is in New York at present.

Pennington refuses to take the reports seriously. Yesterday he greeted newspapermen with the announcement that "the Pirates are playing here today." He altered that a bit today. His greeting was, "Well, the Pirates play a double-header this afternoon."

Indiana Woman Found Murdered

Find Young Indiana Woman Shot Through Jaw And Then Burned To Death

BELIEVE KILLERS MEMBERS OF GANG

(International News Service)

CROWN POINT, Ind., Aug. 17.—Shot through the face and then burned alive, the body of a young woman, apparently about 25 years old, reposed in an undertaking establishment here today.

All attempts to identify her have failed.

Police first believed the body was that of Adeline Zaccard, alleged sweetheart of Angelo Francisco, who was shot to death in an automobile near Mount Prospect, Ill., yesterday. Francisco was believed to have participated in the West McHenry, Ill., bank robbery on Monday and to have been killed by town guards who answered the alarm.

The police theory was that Miss Zaccard has been "taken for a ride" by members of the slain Francisco's gang to seal her lips against betrayal of the other four bank robbers.

But last night, four members of Miss Zaccard's family, including her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Zaccard, viewed the remains, failed to recognize the victim.

The woman had been shot through the jaw, but a coroner's physician declared the wound would not have caused death. It is believed while she was still unconscious her captors poured gasoline over her clothing and set her afire.

The tracks of an automobile were found in a corn field a short distance from where the body was found. The car evidently had driven in there, halted for a time, then backed out and drove away.

A general alarm was sounded shortly after the blaze broke out in the storage rooms of the furniture store. All the fire companies in the city responded and Stewart Rodman broke his right ankle when he fell from one of the fire trucks.

The origin of the blaze has not been determined.

(International News Service)

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 17.—The monoplane Greater Rockford, which reached here yesterday on the first leg of a proposed flight to Stockholm, Sweden, will not take off today for Mt. Evans, Greenland, the next stopping-off place, because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, the pilots of the plane, made the 800-mile jump from Rockford, Ill., to here in seven hours and 49 minutes. They had intended leaving this morning for Mt. Evans, Greenland, a hop of 1,600 miles, where the flight across the Atlantic was to begin.

(International News Service)

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 17.—unfavorable weather today may force Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer who were to take off from here this morning in the monoplane Greater Rockford on the second leg of their flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden, to postpone the hop until tomorrow. The second leg will take the Illinois airmen to Mt. Evans, Greenland, a hop of 1600 miles.

The aviators made the 800 mile jump from Rockford to Cochrane in seven hours and 49 minutes. They left Rockford yesterday at 6:40 a. m. (Central Time) and arrived here at 2:29 p. m. (Canadian Time).

Let these hiking enthusiasts follow their sport, let them hike till the hot day is done, but I'm not quite so keen for a walk on the street, when the city is sweltered with sun. I much would prefer some far out shady nook, where the trees cast a shade all around, and were I not working, (for poets must eat) that's likely just where I'd be found. But to hike out for fun when the sun is ablaze, is my idea of say nothing to do, I'd sooner a spot where it wasn't so hot, not so warm today, just eighty-two.

Gilda Gray Is Latest In Matrimonial Snare

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Gil Boag and Gilda Gray have come to the forks in the road. Boag is to seek annulment of his marriage to the famed dancer and film actress.

That was the announcement today of Attorney Milton M. Golden, who said he had received a cablegram from Boag, now in Berlin, directing him to institute action in the Los Angeles courts at once.

"Prenuptial Fraud."

Attorney Golden stated that the basis of the action would be charges of "prenuptial fraud".

Boag formerly was a New York cabaret proprietor and Miss Gray's manager. His wife is believed to be in London, where she is reported to have signed a British film contract.

Property valued at $1,000,000 will be involved in the action, according to Attorney Golden.

The couple were married in 1924. Rumors of marital difficulties between Boag and the dancer have been current for some time. It was reported several months ago that Boag

Merchant Near Uniontown Is Seriously Wounded By Husband; Wife Figures In Case

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 17.—Mike Burcik, 20, held in the county jail here charged with assault and battery and shooting with intent to kill, today held to his story that he merely tried to carry out the wishes of Abe Fickman, 35, merchant, of Thompson No. 1, to "shoot him dead" if Fickman paid any attentions to Burcik's wife, according to police.

Fickman is in Uniontown hospital in a critical condition with bullet wounds in his head and chest. Authorities are awaiting the outcome of the merchant's wounds before pressing action.

According to police Burcik accuses Fickman of paying attentions to Mrs. Burcik, and said that when he accused the merchant, the latter promised not to see Mrs. Burcik, giving the woman's husband leave to "shoot him dead" if he violated his promise.

Measure Forbids Use Of Fireworks

Council Passes Ordinance Which Bars Use Of Fireworks Here

Mayor William Gillespie today stated that the city would no longer permit the explosion of bombs in New Castle and that one man connected with the display of fireworks recently had been summoned to the mayor's office.

The mayor said he had been promised that no large fireworks or loud detonating bombs would be fired.

He says that the department received a complaint from a man saying he was connected with the New Castle hospital.

Further, council today adopted an ordinance which prohibits the sale, possession or discharge of fireworks of any description in the city.

Many other cities in the United States have banned fireworks and it is believed that having adopted an ordinance and the mayor having stated his opposition to the detonating bombs the practice will be stopped for all time.

lice station the other night. A bum wandered into the cell room and went to sleep. Gendarmes, bringing in the evening's quota of drunks, saw him and locked him up too .In the morning, there was a howl. The bum had awakened and found himself in the clutches of the law. As he was not on the police station blotter he was released by the sergeant but not before he had been admonished not to sleep in the cells until it was cold enough to warrant it.

And speaking of the police station, just to test the fallibility of the desk sergeant, Pa Newc called him on the telephone the other day and asked him the time. The gruff reply was "call The News." The police station you know has stopped giving out the time over the telephone.

Pa Newc for one, is glad traffic can proceed both ways on Water street. This will serve to speed up the progress of automobiles up and down the business section of the city. It is a welcome innovation.

Corn along the country side which did not promise to be so much a few short weeks ago has taken a new lease on life. Now it is as tall as Pa Newc, some six feet and is still growing.

Already the cattle and swine breeders in Lawrence county as well as other counties are getting their prize animals ready for the round of fairs which will begin during the latter part of this month. And it is only a trifle more than a month before the New Castle fair will be in full swing.

Many states in the Union, through which the Benjamin Franklin transcontinental highway runs will hear much more from the association now than formerly. The organization is preparing to spread literature on the highways throughout the United States.

GOVERNOR SMITH DISCUSSES SPEECH

of Georgia, the governor was expected to go over his acceptance speech today with Senator Walsh, particularly as it deals with prohibition.

The governor is understood to have had some straight-from-the-shoulder talks with the southern dry leaders about prohibition, but they all left the executive mansion smiling. Neither the governor nor the southern chiefs would comment on what took place at the conference, but there was a report that they had urged the nominee not to make prohibition the major issue in the coming campaign.

Campaign Tour Uncertain

Because Governor Smith has a high regard for Senator Walsh's political sagacity, it is understood he will consult with the Montana leader about his campaign plans.

The governor, according to his confidants, has not yet made up his mind whether he ought to include the Pacific coast and some of the southern states in his campaign itinerary, and he plans to frankly ask Walsh for advice.

While the governor has refused to discuss his campaign plans, it can be stated on reliable authority that he has definitely abandoned his original plan of limiting his campaign to a dozen or 15 radio speeches in the chief cities throughout the country. Once the campaign gets under way, the governor will be found making a great many short talks from the rear of his private car, as well as mixing in the crowds which always greet a Presidential candidate's train.

There are indications now that once Smith gets into the swing of the battle he will conduct one of the most picturesque campaigns that the country ever has witnessed. The governor's close friends say he can be counted upon to carry the battle right to his Republican opponent's doorstep.

HASSELL-CRAMER MAY BE FORCED TO DELAY FLIGHT

Greenland, where the plane will take on gasoline and oil.

After flying from Mt. Evans to Reykjavik, Iceland, the aviators will attempt the long hop to Stockholm.

Given Reception

The entire population of Cochrane was on hand when the Greater Rockford hove into sight here. The plane made a perfect landing on an improvised runway which had been constructed hurriedly at a point three miles north of Cochrane.

Both Hassell and Cramer were in fine condition and confident of success in their daring venture. They said they had no trouble in locating Cochrane, which is located at the junction point of the Canadian National Railways and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. The two lines of steel furnished a splendid guide for the fliers.

Board of Trade officials arranged the welcome for the fliers. The two band was there in all its glory and blared forth marital airs.

Weather Ideal

Hassell and Cramer said that the weather conditions had been ideal for the first 300 miles of the first leg of the flight. During the last 300 miles the plane ran into the edges of storms. A thunderstorm was encountered at Cochrane but it did not interfere with the landing.

The Illinois airmen believe that if their venture is successful, a safe route will be firmly established for trans-Atlantic flights in the future. They are seeking to blaze the trail for a new air lane to Europe which will minimize the hazards experienced in other flights. Their longest journey over water will be only 550 miles.

The present flight marks their second attempt. Several weeks ago Hassell and Cramer escaped death by a miracle when their plane crashed into a cornfield a few minutes after it had taken off from Rockford.

Flight Postponed

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 17.—According to advices received here today from Cochrane, Ontario, Bert Hassell and his co-pilot, Parker Cramer, have postponed the next leg of their flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Hassell stated it had rained steadily during the night and that thunderstorms threatened the trip to Greenland from Cochrane, which was to have been attempted today. Tentative plans are now to hop tomorrow, but if the weather conditions do not improve Hassel said he might not attempt the flight for several days.

At the present time the New Castle high school orchestra and band are known over the entire state for their work and beyond the confines of the state. Quite naturally his work attracted the attention of other institutions and each year has seen a number of offers made him.

This year he has two offers either one of which is too flattering to resist. One comes from the State Teachers college at Westchester and the other from a mid-western university. Just which one he will accept is not certain at this time but he felt that he owed it to his future to accept one of them.

He has agreed to stay in New Castle until a suitable successor is selected for him.

and his wife had agreed on a property settlement.

Suit Is Filed.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Charging "prenuptial fraud" Gil Boag, New York cabaret owner, filed suit today for the annulment of his marriage to Gilda Gray, former "shimmie" dance star and film actress through his attorney, Milton M. Golden. The request was received by Golden in a cablegram from Boag.

Boag alleges in his suit that Gilda Gray before her marriage to him in 1924, was guilty of violations of the morals laws in Wisconsin and cites police records in support of his contentions. Golden said.

The annulment is asked on the grounds of fraud, the Attorney Golden declared, Boag contending that he was unaware of the alleged morals law violations before his marriage.

Miss Gray at present is in London where she is reported to have signed a contract with a British film producer to appear in a picture at a salary reputedly higher than that paid to any other motion picture actress in Europe.

One million dollars in property will be involved in the suit, according to Attorney Golden.

Fireworks Bomb Causes $50 Fine

Peter Vitale Before Mayor As Result Of Aerial Bomb Antics Wednesday

It cost Peter Vitale, manager of the Vitale Fireworks company of West Washington street extension, just $50 to shoot a mammoth aerial bomb at a celebration which took place Wednesday evening near the New Castle hospital on South Jefferson street.

This morning he came to the police station to answer to the charge and was fined $50 or thirty days in jail. He paid the fine.

On the evening of August 15, Vitale was shooting fireworks on the New Castle hospital property on South Jefferson street. A large 15 pound bomb was set off, but failed to explode, and coming down, it crashed through the roof of the home of James Bambino of 1002 South Jefferson street, breaking through the slate, and coming to rest on a bed room floor, just a few inches from a bed into which Mrs. Bambino was placing a sick child.

Officer McMullen got the bomb and brought it to the police station. Vitale was asked to come to the police station. This morning, he showed up, and was fined.

"People who shoot fireworks near the New Castle hospital will have to be very careful in the future," stated Chief of Police C. C. Horner. "There is a city ordinance which forbids the shooting of fireworks within 1,100 feet of the hospital, and in the future, the police force will see that it is observed."

speech he makes will have some difinite purpose in view, he has turned down all suggestions of "barnstorming" tours and expressed a personal preference to make but four set addresses, after his scheduled farm program speech in West Branch, Iowa, on August 21.

Hoover announced he would discuss "the relation of our government to public utilities and railways" at some future date. This may be one of the important issues of the campaign as it involves disposition of Muscle Shoals, the Boulder Dam project, the so-called "Power Trust" now under investigation by the federal trade commission, and the development of many inland water ways. It is the only major issue upon which Hoover has not yet announced a definite policy.

Other subjects which the nominee said he would discuss after getting back east, were the development of waterways and highways, conservation of natural resources, foreign trade and merchant marine, improved administration of the criminal code, aviation and governmental economy. Each of these subjects has its particular following and the candidate has planned to discuss each at some length.

Three Warrants Against Toombs

Additional Charges Are Made In State Courts As Well

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—With three warrants issued against Roy C. Toombs, president of the International Life Insurance company, charging him with using the mails to defraud, the federal government today was actively participating in the case. The revealed losses of the insurance company today stood at $4,678,000.

The warrants charge that Toombs used the mails to transport "overissued" stock from this city to Chicago. They were issued when W. G. Darst, secretary, informed the authorities that Toombs had ordered him to issue more stock than the company was authorized to have outstanding.

The stock certificates, Darst said, were mailed to Toombs by parcel post for his signature, and that old stock had not been cancelled as required in case of an over issue.

Meanwhile additional charges were made in the state courts, among them one that Toombs persuaded Darst and the vice president of the company to sign fictitious shares of stock "with felonious intent."

E. J. Morgensteirs of Chicago, close adviser of Toombs, and allegedly holding mystic powers, was charged with assisting Toombs in the juggling of the company's finances. Morgensteirs had been employed by Toombs as a personnel director of the insurance company.

PARKSTOWN CORNERS CURVE

Editor of The News:—

May I have a word to say in your paper under the subject of Parkstown Menace?

Parkstown has warning signs and can be seen for a distance.

The two young women that were killed on Tuesday, August 14, at about 4 o'clock did not happen at Parkstown but three-quarters of a mile past the curve, headed for New Castle, near the old Winter road.

I do not believe that the driver was to blame for this. Any person has a right to pass another car if he sees that the road is clear as this case was. He got off the concrete and when he got back on the concrete he was thrown to where the girls were killed.

At the place where many other cars have also left the road it is in bad shape and I think that if a little attention was paid and little repairing done that many of these accidents could be saved.

The next day, August 15, at about 10:30 in the morning, one more car left the road at this same place and when he got up on the road again he overturned.

I can recall many cars that have had accidents there. One year ago last July a man from Pittsburgh had 45 stitches put in his head in my house. His wife was hurt, laid in bed many weeks and almost lost a limb.

We need stop and warning signs there. It is what they call the old Winter road. Cars go out the road and never look or stop.

And people making the turn oftimes never give their signal until too late. On July 8 of this year a lady had a very bad cut in her thigh just to the cause just mentioned.

So we think that we need warning signs at the old Winter road and a little mending of the highway. I can recall many accidents that have occurred and many that were very near.

Now do you not think there is a cause?

MRS. H. C. HOPPER.

NEW CASTLE PROGRESSES!

TOMORROW will mark another occasion in the progress and steady development of New Castle's business area.

Two magnificent modern banking buildings are to be opened to the public, and added permanently to the facilities for business in the city. The First National Bank of Lawrence County is opening a magnificent new banking and office building at the corner of Mercer and Washington streets, while the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company on Washington street will open for public use, the greatly enlarged banking rooms of the company and the seven story addition to the office building, recently completed.

Both of these structures denote a real step forward in business progress in New Castle. They are in keeping with the ideals for a greater New Castle. Both are of metropolitan proportions. Directors and officers of these financial institutions have demonstrated their faith in the future of New Castle, and have given to the city two business institutions which are in every way a credit to this steadily growing and expanding city.

Congratulations are due those at the head of affairs of both of these banks for the plans that they have carried out, which have resulted in the completion of these structures. They are a source of inspiration to others and will augment the program of the building of a greater New Castle.

Taken in connection with the fine new hotel, "The Castleton", the Scottish Rite cathedral, the new schools, churches, the new P. & O. Company building, the magnificent new Jameson Memorial Hospital and other structures recently erected, New Castle is showing a development the past few years that can be exhibited with justifiable pride.

The News joins with the citizens of the city in extending heartiest congratulations to The Lawrence Savings and Trust Company and the First National Bank of Lawrence County, on the opening of their splendid new quarters and the adequate and extensive office buildings that are also provided.

New Castle progresses!

THE BEN FRANKLIN HIGHWAY

NEW CASTLE is one of the largest cities in a span of several hundred miles on the new Ben Franklin highway, a new route reaching from Atlantic City to San Francisco, along the most direct and shortest route.

Yesterday, leaders in the project were assembled in this city considering ways and means of giving the route more widespread publicity throughout the nation, as a means of increasing rapidly its steady growing popularity.

Plans are being made to bring about this national publicity.

In the meantime, we New Castle residents can lend a hand in advertising and popularizing the route. Urge autoists to follow it. Tell them about it. Use it yourself. Preach its advantages. It is one trans-continental route that misses most of the large cities and thus makes rapid travel easier.

Do your bit to help along this project. The route is laid out. The road is practically complete, and it needs but to become universally known to make it the most popular route across the country—with the consequent added benefit to New Castle.

Lend a hand!

THE NATIONAL DELICACY

LAST year Americans consumed 335,703,610 gallons of ice cream, which was nearly three gallons for every man, woman and child in the land. In a single year the national consumption of ice cream increased 11,000,000 gallons.

Much of the growth and prosperity of the dairy industry during the last few years have been due to the increasing popularity of ice cream. Since 1917 consumption of ice cream has increased 160 per cent.

Ice cream has been a boon to mankind. It is a wholesome and satisfying food. Countless times it has solved the dilemma what to give unexpected guests. It has usurped the pie as the national dessert. But of more importance is the new industry it has created. Billions are invested and thousands of men and women are employed in this industry. A part of it are the dairy farms which furnish the great quantities of cream and milk required by it each day.

Ice cream saved the farmer from bankruptcy when prohibitions deprived him of a market for his grain. Just as the consumer turned from beer to ice cream, growers of corn, rye, barley and hops turned from grain-growing to dairy farming. And the farmers have found it a profitable change.

That this is one of the benefits of prohibition will be denied by only that handful of eccentrics lacking taste for ice cream.

Evolution isn't finished, and centuries from now electric chairs may be valuable only as period furniture.

Mr. Fred Rentz
The News,
New Castle, Pa.:

Dear Fred: Well, we "got ours" last Wednesday all day and night in the shape of a genuine tropical storm. I would judge the property loss in St. Cloud alone was near $75,000. At times the wind blew 75 miles per hour, and talk about rain, say Fred, you folks never have anything but a sprinkle. The record of your recent cloudburst showed a rainfall of 1.58 inches, while ours on Wednesday night here was 7.35 when the guage was blown away. I'm enclosing you a copy of our local paper which carries an account of the big storm. Poor old Sid McRay was a big loser, as his warehouse was almost demolished, causing a loss of $400. My loss was small, with only 300 grape fruit blown off.

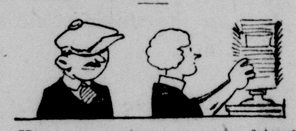

Hope all are well. Kindest regards,

If Wisconsin trout would bite the president's bait as savagely as "respectable" usury, encouraged by the Federal Reserve bites American business, it would be wonderful.

When he finishes with the trout, President Coolidge may want to know why the Federal Reserve has been acting as an agency to promote usury and increase the cost of doing business.

A well known Los Angeles business man wires the suggestion that some Wall Street gentlemen, with strings on the Federal Reserve, having gone short of the market are raising interest rates to knock down prices under pretext of "restraining excessive speculation. . ."

A year ago, Wall Street respectabilities warned against higher prices, which probably meant that they were "short." With the president, or perhaps his successor, Hoover or Smith, look into this matter?

Besides crippling business and prosperity, our artificially created usury rates are helping London to regain from us control of the world's money market.

Dr. Paul, French medico-legal expert, reports he found poison in the organs of Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian millionaire, supposed to have jumped from his airplane.

London's Scotland Yard detectives are working on what they think may be the greatest murder mystery of all times.

The motive for the murder may have been to produce profit for stock gamblers. Stocks controlled by Loewenstein dropped tens of millions on his death.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., interests himself in New York's race problem, as regards colored people. He has built model tenements for them at reasonable prices, and will build more, instead of compelling the colored population to pay exorbitant rents for miserable quarters.

In one of his model apartment houses for colored people, Mr. Rockefeller has installed a bank in which his son is a director, the latter's first directorate.

The original thing about the bank is that it will treat colored people, borrowers and depositors, fairly, and not tell them in the words of the old story, "Can't you understand that the interest ate up the money that you deposited with us?"

A distinguished official replies: "You're away off in your figures. It isn't $10,000,000, it is $15,000,000, if it's a nickel."

It is said the Federal Trade Commission will investigate the absorption of Dodge Brothers by the Chrysler Company.

The commission should congratulate Mr. Chrysler. The country needs bigger units, more efficiency, smaller overhead. Mr. Chrysler buying the Dodge Company, which happened to be in the hands of bankers, rendered service to the public, and to the Dodge Company.

That ought to suit Costa Rica.

COOLIDGE AND THE CLOU'

President Coolidge, talking to reporters, told them it is his intention to make regular pilgrimages to his old home in Vermont.

His Purpose is to keep in touch with what the humble, average men and women of the country are thinking and feeling.

In Washington, he feels himself more or less isolated from common life and the opinions of common people.

There, "public opinion" tends to represent the ideas of the organized parts of society rather than those of the unorganized mass of voters.

Public opinion moves like the clouds on a summer's day.

At different levels the air currents are moving in different directions.

Near the earth the clouds may be moving in one direction and higher up in another.

At times public opinion in one stratum advises one action; in another an opposite action.

The attitude of New York City or Chicago upon the question of prohibition is only the attitude of one stratum. It does not indicate the direction all the clouds of public opinion are moving.

The chief executive who carries on the business of his office most successfully is the one who watches the clouds at all levels and is not influenced entirely by the way one set is moving.

The opinions of the organized groups with which he is surrounded are like the clouds near the earth. They can be easily seen and often they obscure the ones higher up which may be setting in another direction.

These other clouds are the opinions of the unorganized mass of voters who express their ideas at election time.

The direction the majority of the clouds move should be the guiding factor in most presidential decisions. This is not always easy to determine. To achieve it he must examine all strata, and especially that on which the ideas of the common people, which are usually less easily perceived, move.

President Coolidge showed his wisdom in making his regular visits to the stratum in which common people live.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

Announcement that the Postoffice Department will show a deficit of $100,000,000 for the current fiscal year, coming on the heels of an increase by the Commerce Commission of 15 per cent in the compensation of the railroads carrying the mails, may create in many minds the impression of cause and effect. Were that the correct relation between the two events it would still be true, as the Commission finds, that the railroads have been underpaid for years and in fairness should have their increase, whatever its effect upon the Department's exhibit or the national budget. But the larger truth is that we persistently deceive ourselves about the finances of the postal service.

It is notorious that the Commerce Commission has granted the railroads as little as possible in freight, passenger and other rates since the war, has adopted a "prudent investment" theory of valuation to prevent their sharing in the rise in property values during the same period, and has laid its hand heavily upon matters of strictly corporate management. No one can seriously accuse the Commission of unduly favoring the railroads, in this way or any other matter. Five out of eleven commissioners dissented from the mail pay award, but one of these objected only to making the grant retroactive for three years and two dissenters have been almost uniformly against the carriers in revenue cases and in this case expressed their dissent upon vague general grounds.

Therefore the decision only confirms the suspicion long held by close observers that the nominal surpluses of the Postoffice Department were made possible chiefly by underpayment of Postmaster General New, who was under the necessity of making the best of a situation he inherited from his predecessors. It was no part of his business, as the law stands, to offer the railroads more money. On the contrary, he was obliged by his position to deal as severely with them as the Commission might allow.

But the question arises why the country should have deceived itself into believing that the postal service was self-sustaining, only to wake up with a $45,000,000 bill of arrears and an annual addition of $15,000,000 to the Postoffice expense budget. The answer is that such deceptive accounting is inherent in the business of our political institutions and is among the weighty reasons for limiting government to its inevitable functions.

How much money would the American Railway Express Company lose if it carried the mails at the present prices?

COST OF DRYING UP NEW YORK ASSAILED WITH MUCH SATIRE

American opinion does not unanimously applaud thousand-dollar govern champagne parties as a means of enforcing prohibition. If there are those who approve of the methods recently revealed in the expennse accounts of the dry sleuths who drank their way into the confidence of two Broadway night-club hostesses, most of them are silent. Many comment ironically but others object to the high cost of this method of sleuthing or seriously urge the importance of stopping the flow at the source rather than at the bottle neck.

"They never all who drink in a great cause," philosophizes the NEW YORK TIMES (Ind.), as it views the scene in which "strong-hearted and strong-stomached men welcome the risks to which a collector of 'evidence' in these cases is exposed," and states that "if the prohibition authorities are right there is 'poison' in every illegitimate glass." But the Times is inclined to believe that "keepers of night clubs are as 'easy marks' as their clients."

"How easily gulled were these charming people, the night-club hostesses of New York!" exclaims the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH (Ind.), explaining: "Along come the prohibition agents representing themselves as 'big business men' from somewhere 'out where the west begins,' convivial chaps and good spenders, and are so accepted without demur or quesution. The sleuths could have gotten little thrill in treeing such easy game. And the abominable stuff purveyed in these glamourous, exclusive studios! The champagne at $25 a quart, we are told, was charged water spiked with alcohol, and the superannuated Scotch and venerable bourbon were synthetic products fresh from the laboratory. Scarcely a shred or a tatter of an illusion left."

"Some of the agents," suggests the HARTFORD COURANT (Ind.-Rep.), "apparently decided that it was better to secure too much than too little evidence. In fact, during the course of their activities they must have acquired enough evidence to float a fair-sized ship. Yet it may readily be assumed that, generally speaking, the agents were conscientious in their disbursements. * * * The net result of the raids will be precisely nothing, even if convictions are secured against the 138 individuals indicted, and even if each of them is given the maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and two years in prison. Needless to say, the chances are that conviction will be secured against relatively few of them and that the maximum penalty will be inflicted on few or none of them."

"If we are to judge by the results of a long series of less expensive and spectacular raids of this character," according to the SYRACUSE HERALD (Ind.), "the only effect of the present drive will be to make the vendors of illegal beverages in the metropolis more vigilant, or perhaps to turn over a part of their surreptitious business to the less aristocratic speakeasies and the bootlegging agencies."

"The night-club closures," according to the MORGANTOWN NEW DOMINION (Ind.-Dem.), "have about the same effect on drying up Manhattan Island as the dipping of a few buckets of water from the Hudson river would have on an attempt to dry up the river channel." The HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH (Ind.-Rep.) says: "Experience has shown that every time a padlock snapped shut on the door of a palais de this or that, th same club re-opened short-

City Will Cut Down Own Weeds

A-hem!

There are weeds on city property.

Some have grown on the city plot between Montgomery street and the Mt. Jackson highway.

Councilman Reeves also said that the weeds on the property occupied by the library building should be cut off at the ground.

There are many city lots where weeds grow.

The city has asked property owners to cut weeds and no doubt "the practice will begin at home."

A TINY KING GOES FOR A RIDE

Cares of state rest lightly on the shoulders of Roumania's boy king, Michael, as he trots along the beach on his pony, near Constantanza, on the Black sea. His mother, the Princess Helene, is leading her son's mount.

ly under another name, in another location. * * * Let us keep an observant eye on the continuity of this gripping spectacle. The agents can't lose, the night clubs won't, but how about the taxpayers? Enforcement can be accomplished at far less cost."

The suggestion that "no doubt the information (about the intended raids) was kept secret from the other agents in Washington, for otherwise there would have been a riot among the enforcers for the honor of invading the metropolis," comes from the BELLINGHAM HERALD (Ind.-Rep.), while the BINGHAMTON PRESS (Ind.-Rep.) feels that "the American public will quite generally agree that the agents and their wives and friends had a good time seeing high life as it is in these Volsteadian days."

Quoting a statement from Prohibition Commisioner Doran, indicating a purpose to "concentrate the federal forces on the sources of supply," the NEW YORK WORLD (Ind.) directs attention to the fact that "we are now told that 'drying up Broadway' is one of the major problems of enforcement", and refers to the matter as "a silly performance." The COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL (Ind.-Rep.) remarks: "We imagine the 138 indictments obtained might have been obtained at vastly less cost to the government and at vastly less peril to the federal agents' morals." The CLEVELAND NEWS (Ind.-Rep.) holds that "these little raids have accomplished nothing toward uncovering the sources of supply, though the money might have gone far if diverted for that purpose."

"The prohibition authorities," according to the INDIANAPOIS NEWS (Ind.), "have been praised for their extraordinary success in finding that liquor was sold in these resorts in violation of the law. For several years it has been assumed that the federal government would not find out about these sales. Patrons of the clubs, especially those from the west, marveled at the success of the club proprietors in being able to sell liquor to any one with the money to buy, and still keep the traffic a secret from the federal government. * * * The government is likely to go broke before it completes its New York enforcement campaign. Other parts of the country will have to be visited, for there must be no favoritism."

"Why, we wonder," asks the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (Ind.), "was the $42 champagne necessary? The Volstead act says nothing of champagne particularly, nor does the 18th amendment. A bottle of Scotch, as evidence, would certainly have done just as well." Furthermore, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind.-Rep.) contends that "every one in the United States except the prohibition unit has known the alcoholic content of New York and Washington social life."

In more serious vein, the BANGOR DAILY COMMERCIAL (Ind.-Rep.) says: "Every indication exists that the federal enforcement officials are very earnest in their endeavor to decrease the moistness of New York. * * * The clubs cannot continue the sale of liquor if the authorities are determined to stop that sale."

PHONE RATES TO BE CHANGED

New Wilmington Company Files Notice Of Changes In Rates On Service

The New Wilmington Telephone Company, which furnishes telephone service in Lawrence and Mercer counties, in the townships of Neshannock, Pulaski, Shenango, Lackawannock and East Lackawannock, has filed a new tariff with the public service commission, which will make increases, changes and reductions in their rates, effective September 1.

Among the changes in the rates, two-party business and residence rates have been established, while the multi-party rural line rates have been decreased.

The increased rates will bring the individual line rate to $4, which is now $2 to $6. The new rate for the multi-party line rate, which is now $1.75 to $2.75, to $2. The individual residence line rate of $2 to $6 will now be $3.50. Another rate in the multi-party lines, which is $1.25, will be $1.50.

Council Delays Granting Request

Civil Service Board's Records Are Not Removed From City Hall

Although Mrs. Thomas Jones, city clerk, presented the request of Ralph Cooper, civil service board secretary, asking that he be allowed to remove the board's records from the city clerk's office to his office in the Lawrence Savings & Trust building, councilmen demurred.

Council sent the request to committee and before it is granted the feasibility of removing city records from city offices and putting them in other offices will be discussed fully.

Councilman Reeves stood pat for their maintenance in city hall.

Councilman Davies said: "I don't know if they should be taken out."

Mrs. Jones said: "I think one person should take care of all the civil service records."

She maintained that applicants for positions visited her office for records and asked so many unnecessary questions that it consummed her time.

LOOK Before You Back!

More than one father has killed his own child as a result of backing his automobile out of the garage without first making sure that the path was clear, reports the National Safety Council, which urges motorists to exercise unusual care when starting out for a ride. Remember, the child who may have been in the house when you left doesn't take more than a few seconds to run outside, perhaps to bid you farewell or beg for a ride. Bear in mind, when backing, that your best bet is not only to blow your horn but also to look out to see if anyone is in the way ere proceeding.

Forget About Parked Auto

An interesting little story is told concerning the automobile of H. D. Byers, well known city fireman.

Mrs. Byers and son Frank attended the fireworks celebration in Mahoningtown Wednesday evening. Enroute home they decided to stop at a restaurant and parked their car on North Mill street. After enjoying a lunch, the car was forgotten and they walked home.

The next afternoon Mr. Byers was seen hurrying to his garage, which was locked. On unlocking it, he found no car. He immediately informed people in the vicinity that it was stolen.

The hunt then started and late Thursday afternoon the car was found by the owner parked on North Mill street, where it had been left the night before.

Kennedy Plays Drum For Vets

For many years, Ben Kennedy has played the drum in the Old Timers' Fife and Drum Corps, which always leads the Cival War veterans on their march down the mid way.

This year Ben Kennedy played the drum at the last march of the veterans. And for that, the veterans wish to thank him, as well as the other members of the corps.

Rembrandt enjoyed painting wrinkles. Too bad he lived before men adopted summer suits like these.

Prison Parole Is Opposed By Convict-Pastor

By VERNON E. MOORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 17.—A man, once convicted and for the past 18 years an evangelist who has specialized in "saving the souls" of criminals now in prison, openly declares himself as opposed to the parole of hardened criminals from penitentiaries to which they have been sentenced.

This opponent of leniency to the hardened criminals is Rev. E. C. Murphy, who is speaking nightly in the "Chick in Overalls" here. Regardless of the city where he may find himself in the United States, Rev. Murphy directs the work of administering the gospel to convicts in 50 prisons throughout the country as superintendent of the Aurora Bible society at Aurora, Ill.

Shows Difference.

"There is a difference between the man who steals and the man who is a thief," he contends. "The man who steals may be hungry and he may repent it afterward. He deserves consideration. But the man who is a thief has chosen that means of making his living. He is a menace to society and should be held in the penitentiary.

"There is no doubt that the man who is convicted again and again of his felonies is mentally unbalanced," he declares. "But that is the reason they should not be allowed to go free."

The minister has had exceptional success in his work of reforming prison inmates. At present, 47 of the converts are taking courses in the Moody Bible Institute in preparation for the ministry.

The traveling parson, visitor at all of the state prisons he chances to pass in his journeys, was a prominent character in a "story behind the story" which newspapers throughout the country carried in their columns a year ago.

Converted Criminals.

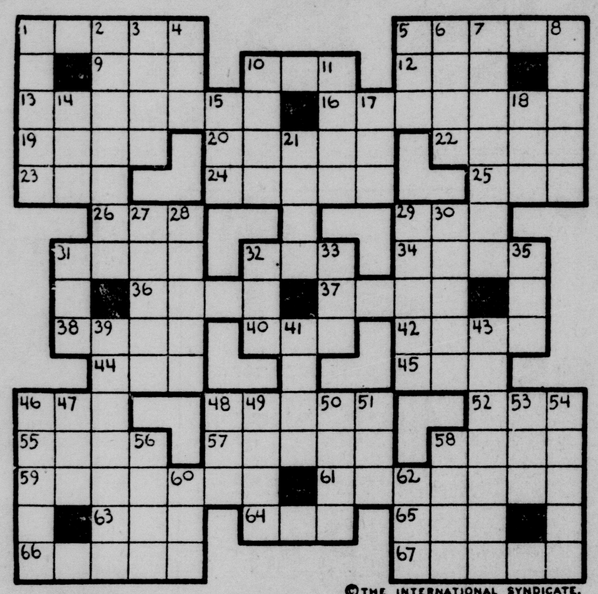

His work led to the conversion of Ralph E. Teter, arrested because of his connection with several Chicago robberies. He was one of the prominent characters in this "story behind the story".

After his conversion, Teter turned state's witness in the Dearborn street mail robbery in Chicago. It was his testimony which ended the romantic career, hinting of lawlessness, of Big Tim Murphy, Chicago gangsters who led the robbery planning.

Concluding his interview, Rev. Murphy re-emphasized his stand as opposed to the parole of hardened criminals.

Crime will be with us always. Those who are new at crime, who have made their first mistake and were caught, society has a chance to save. For those who return to crime a second or third time, little can be done with them. They should be put away permanently, with no chance of parole."

Peter's Adventures in Animal Land

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

RED BALL ROLLS ON.

As suddenly as Bobolink had tucked his head under his wing he popped it out again to chirp:

"By the way there is one thing about the great Red Ball that we birds have never been able to understand and that is why, no matter where we may be at twilight, we always see it dropping out of sight. Yet when it rolls into view again it is always on the other side of the sky from the one on which it went down. Funny thing! I wonder what it does all night long! It must roll along somewhere, but certainly not in the sky!"

"Oh, but it does" cried the boy. "Only it rolls along in the sky on the other side of the earth. The earth is round you know and the sun just travels about it.'

'Stuff and nonsense!" declared Mrs. Bobolink before her husband could speak. "Can't you set with your own eyes that the earth can't be round? Why you can see its edges where it mets the sky any way you look!"

"But you could go and go and never come to any falling off place," insisted the boy. "The geography says so."

"We are not talking about geography Boy" with dignity Bobolink interrupted the discussion. "I was teling you that day was dawning down on the inlets when you so rudely changed the subject. If you are not interested, Boy, Mrs. Gray Rabbit and Sonny-Bunny are."

Peter was much distressed to hear Mr. Bobolink speak to him like that.

"But I am interested" cried he. "Just as interested as I can be. I am sorry that I said anything about the Sun. I didn't mean to change the subject. I just thought you might like to know that the earth was round. You birds are not the only ones who have thought it flat. The Humans did too once upon a time you know!

"But anyhow it does not matter. Please go on and tell us what happened next. What became of the Night Watchman?"

"That is just what I was about to tell you when you interrupted me."

"THE EARTH IS ROUND AND THE SUN TRAVELS ABOUT IT," SAID PETER.

Bobolink was quite dignified now. "As I said day was breaking. But long before the first beam shone upon the sea—even before the top rim of the Red Ball rose into sight the Watchman of the Night began to act strangely."

Hughes Heads Hoover Boosters

In accepting the chairmanship, Hughes reiterated his "whole-hearted" support for Hoover.

Post Cards From Europe

by William Ivy

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Miss Mabel Boll, the famous "Queen of Diamonds", is still determined to make a trans-Atlantic flight record. Beaten by Miss Earhart on the eastward voyage, she is now in Paris prepared to make any sacrifice to get across in the opposite direction.

Miss Boll, in fact, has already made sacrifices to the gods of the air, at which many multi-millionaires might have balked.

Two years ago, when she thought she was going to try the westward hop with Levine or Chamberlain—or both—she was the owner of one of the most sumptuous suburban properties in the outer suburbs of Paris. Between the historic chateaux of Senlis and Compiegne she had purchased and installed a "folly" that was the admiration of every passerby. Nobody knows what it cost, not alone in purchase price, but in landscape gardening, improvements and furnishings.

A few days before the expected hop-off Miss Boll rushed out in a powerful motor to her country place. The installation had just been completed and she had lived in it only a few days. She sent for her real estate agent and said:

"I am flying to America—perhaps this week, perhaps next. Nobody knows what may happen—anyhow, I want to get rid of this place. We won't quarrel about price—any reasonable offer, but it must be quick."

The conservative French agent, used to more leisurely ways of dealing with large affairs, was startled. "About how much do you mean by 'reasonable', he asked."

"Oh, I don't know," Miss Boll replied impatiently. "Say a couple of million francs—$80,000? The main thing is speed."

The agent realized it was a low figure, but cannily he hesitated.

"Look here," announced Miss Boll. "I have no time to lose. Bring me your best offer at six o'clock tonight."

At 6:30 while the aviatrix was nervously pacing the floor the agent entered dramatically. He slammed a package of banknotes down on the table.

"There's 500,000 francs." he declared. "Best I can do—take it or leave it."

Miss Boll swept the money into her handbag and signed the proffered receipt.

"Done," she cried. "It's all yours. I'm off for good."

She leaped into her waiting car and was whisked to Paris. In the wardrobes the agent found clothes, furs and other personal effects that may have cost more than the $20,000, for which the whole establishment was sold.

Woman Slayer Must Die In Chair, Ruled By Georgia Court

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17.—The state supreme court today ruled that Mrs. Eula Thompson must die in the electric chair for her alleged connection with the murder of Coleman Osborne, a storekeeper at Chatsworth, Ga., a year ago.

Her husband, Clifford Thompson and Jim Moss, negro, were electrocuted at the state prison at Milledgeville August 3.

Mrs. Thompson will carry her appeal to the state prison commission and then to the governor. Meanwhile she will be taken back to Chatseworth to be resentenced and a new date for the electrocution set. Two members of the supreme court dissented from the majority opinion.

Young Came Longest Distance To Reunion

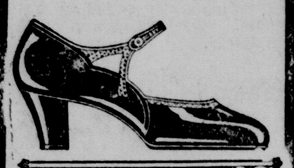

David Young, 71, Oakland, Calif., travelled 2,662 miles to attend the Old Timers picnic at Cascade Park, Wednesday, and for his attendance he was given the honor of being the winner of the prize for being the person to come from the longest distance.

In The News last night an error said that the person receiving this honor was David Long.

MINOR TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS HERE

Reports Of Mishaps Are Made To Police Officers On Thursday

Four minor traffic accidents were reported to the New Castle police department during Thursday afternoon and evening, the reports show.

Harry Lutton of 502 Martin street, while driving west on East North street, near the Temple building, was hit by the machine of A. S. Dubrock of 1123 Croton avenue. Small damage resulted.

Officers Thompson and McKee report that R. E. Shaw of 1026 Adams street, while driving east on East Washington street, near the Ray street intersection, pulled out from behind a street car, and hit the curb on the other side of the street. They also report that the west stream of traffic had to stop to avoid accidents.

Minor damage was the result of a crash at the intersection of Clayton and Cedar streets Thursday evening. Earl W. Turk reports that he was driving east on Clayton street, and at the Cedar street corner, he was bumped by the machine of Harry E. Hare of 304 Sycamore street.

The open front door of special street car number 724 caused small damage to the machine of W. O. Rea of 926 West Washington street, while it was parked on East Washington street Thursday evening.

Penitent Youths Swear Off When Police Get Them

To members of the canned heat gangs about the city, and other habitues of the police court, two quarts of wine are a mere trifle, but to four 15-year-old lads, two quarts of wine are something to conjure with.

Two quarts of wine were filched from someone's cellar, and four boys made "whoopee" on Arlington avenue. Soon they were hopelessly drunk. Officers Letera and Lockhard answered a call, brought the youths to the police station, and locked them up.

And this morning four penitent youths faced Mayor William H. Gillespie at police court. Four youths swore to go on the wagon, never to make another false move, and never again to be caught by the Polizei. They further promised to steal no more wine; to make no more whoopee. They were discharged.

One other drunk in police court this morning, was given $10 or ten days. He chose to pay the fine.

Two other customers confronted the mayor. They were charged with disorderly conduct; being the keeper and an inmate of a bawdy house. Each paid a $10 fine.

POLICE CHIEF ENTERS CHARGE

Driver Of Auto Faces Charge As Result Of Norman Jewelry Store Robbery

Breaking and entering is the charge which will be faced by John Malinowski of Youngstown, when he is arraigned before Alderman Hamilton, following an information made by Chief of Police C. C. Horner Thursday afternoon, implicating him in the Norman Jewelry Company robbery, which took place Sunday morning when the window of the store was broken and merchandise valued at $650 was taken.

Two other men are connected with the robbery, according to the police chief, and their arrest is expected soon.

Officers Surprise Liquor Maker

Police Report North Liberty Street Man Was Ready To Distill Liquor

Charging the violation of the Snyder Act, because he possessed and manufactured illicit liquors, an information was made against George Yshuciohe of North Liberty street before Alderman J. Lee Cooper by Chief of Police C. C. Horner this morning.

The arrest was made early Thursday afternoon, when Detective John Young, and Officers Lynch and Longstreth surprised the man at his home, just as he was getting ready to distill some more liquor, they report. quantities of mash were destroyed by the officers, who brought the man, together with a still, and coils, to the police station.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK,, Aug. 17.—Panorama of Wall Street at noon:

Clerks and stenographers filing into Trinity churchyard to rest a while among the tombstones. The "Chimney Corner" across the street is about to be razed to provide a site for another skyscraper, and Trinity will be further dwarfed. Incidentally, Trinity is the richest parish in the world, owning the ground upon which many great buildings stand and collecting millions in rentals.

The youthfulness of most of the workers in Wall Street houses is amazing. Many of those bell-buttoned, slick-haired, hairless-faced boys scurrying around the corner of Broad street handle hundreds of thousands of dollars in bonds and stocks daily. And those girls looking into the window of a candy shop, stenographers and secretaries to magnates, are typical of many who hold secrets worth thousands. Wall Street knows from experience that despite the temptations to which they are exposed, most young persons are honest.

There's the J. P. Morgan bank. Peering through the barred windows I can see that alterations are being made. And on the wall outside I can see marks of the famous bomb explosion, which the police promised to solve in 24 hours and never have. Those men with flowers on the lapels are traders. It is a part of Stock Exchange tradition that traders shall wear buttonnieres.

There's a man taking a noon-hour snooze on the steps of the sub-treasury. Possibly he is dreaming of having hundreds of millions within his grasp. There are more candy, book and sports goods stores than anything else in the financial district. Most of the patrons of the candy shops are men. They prefer hard candies and caramels to other kinds. And here's a tip for the investment-minded: a book store clerk told me that Wall Street men are buying all the books they can find that contain information on aviation and its commercial possibilities.

There goes B. C. Forbes, the money expert. Naturally he's Scotch. His first name is Bertie. The side-street restaurants are jammed. The most successful ones are those with tables, and these charge high prices not because their food is better but because their patrons stay so long for lunch, talking, and preventing a larger amount of trade from being served. Dawson Berry, manager of the Ship Grill, with whom I used to go to school, says that more business is transacted in New York over luncheon tables than in offices. And I have reason to believe it. He prefers men patrons to women because men eat more and are more easily pleased. And men are more constant. They'll keep going to any restaurant where the food is good, but women like to change around and always want to go to any new place.

And there's the river. Wall Street begins at a river and ends at a graveyard.

This year a man who maintains close ties with his old home town, where he is remembered with affection as the town's most famous and most successful son, was prevented fram making his annual trip back there by a business journey to Europe His home town friends knew that his inability to make the trip home had caused him worry and concern. So when he returned from Europe they put on a surprise party for him at a hotel, with most of the hometowners being present.

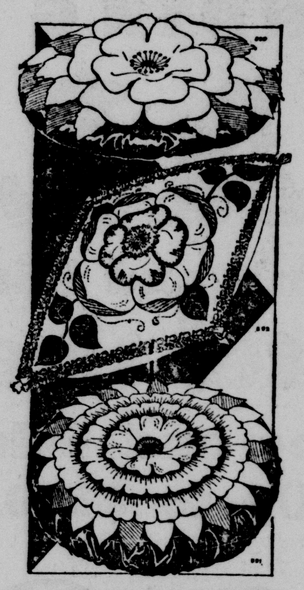

The postmaster was there, and the proprietor of the general store and all the rest of the home folks he grew up with. Though served in the hotel dining room the food was brought from the old home town—fish from the stream the magnate fishes in whenever he is there, fried chickens from the farms of men he knows as friends, roasting ears from their fields, pies and cakes of women, now mothers and wives, he went to school with.

He was so overjoyed at being remembered and surprised by his friends that he insisted on keeping them in New York as his guests for several days, compensating them for their loss of time from their work and businesses with rich gifts.

The hometowners are putting the gifts into a fund to erect a memorial to the man who didn't forget the insignificant town he came from and the humble friends of his youth when he became rich and powerful.

Johnston Explains How To Secure License To Hunt Deer This Year

At least 25 inquiries have already been received in the past few days by Frank N. Johnston, game protector in Lawrence county, by local hunters, who desire to take out a special license to hunt antlerless deer during the season of 1928.

He makes the following explanation of what must be done in order to obtain one of these licenses, the number of which will be limited.

These special licenses, which cost $2, will be issued by the county treasurers of 54 counties in which this type of deer is found in large numbers. They may not be hunted or shot in any other than these counties. Eight of these special licenses will be issued in the respective counties for each legal buck deer killed in these counties in the 1927 hunting season.

Mr. Johnston suggests that those hunters in this county desiring these special licenses select the county in which they want to hunt and at once make application to the county treasurer of that county, as the demand is great for such licenses and they are to be issued in the order in which applications are received. Because of the limited number to be issued, it is best to get the application in at once, otherwise it might be too late.

Before a special deer license can be secured, it is necessary that the applicant for these licenses shall have secured a regular residence hunters license. Hunters may take out special paid deer hunting licenses in several counties. Special paid deer licenses will be issued about September 1. In addition to the $2 license fee, it is necessary that the applicant send four cents postage for the return of the license.

Both the resident hunters license and the special deer license must be displayed in the middle of the back while hunting for deer. The license issued in any one county is good only in that county. No matter how many counties a hunter may secure these special licenses in, only one such antlerless deer may be killed by such licensee during the season.

Mr. Johnston expects to receive application blanks for the special licenses in the next few days but advises those who want to be sure of securing such a license to make application at once to the treasurer of the county desired.

Lithuania And Poland To Try To Find Peace

By O. D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—"The situation in eastern Europe is the same as it was in the Balkans before the World War."

This significant statement was made by the Lithuanian Prime Minister Voldemaras at a press conference at Kovno in which he discussed the Polish-Lithuanian conflict over Vilna which Lithuania claims as its capital but which Poland seized in 1920 and kept with the sanction of the League of Nations.

Vilna is the eastern terminal of the "European danger line" which stretches from the Adriatic, through Hungary, to the eastern Baltic. Coming at a time when the big powers are preparing to sign the Kellogg pact to outlaw war, Voldemaras' statement brings a jarring note into the general peace symphony.

Asked point-blank whether there was actual danger of war, Voldemaras replied evasively:

Fear Powder Barrel.

"I believe that nobody, not even Poland would have the courage to throw the torch into the powder barrel and accept responsibility for a war."

Poland and Lithuania will soon hold another joint conference at Koenigsberg, Germany, in an attempt to reach a preliminary agreement which would put into effect the dictum of the League of Nations that the technical state of war betwen these two nations must end.

Lithuania, Voldemaras announced demands

1. Demilitarization of a 50-kilometre border zone.
2. Poland must cease supporting anti-Lithuanian border gangs.
3. Poland must pay a "moral" indemnity of $10,000,000.

Poland Stubborn.

Poland however is unlikely to accept either these or other conditions; it will not even permit Lithuania to challenge Poland's title to Vilna. Many prominent Polish leaders including Marshal Pilsudski who is a Lithuanian himself dream of some day uniting Poland and Lithuania under one general government as they were united centuries ago under the Lithuania dynasty of the Jagellos The chances for ultimate agreement are therefore slight.

Meanwhile the Polish-Lithuanian border remains closed and Lithuania continues to suffer economic distress because it is entirely cut off from its natural hinterland.

Presents Outline For Making Use Of School Site

If the plans of Architect J. R. McConagie of the Department of Internal Affairs in Harrisburg are carried out by the New Castle school board, the playground of the new George Washington junior high school will be one of the best laid out in this part of the state.

The plans were received by the board Thursday evening and showed a comprehensive layout. In it are included a football field, baseball field, track, general play field, hockey field, quoits and horseshoe courts, swings and a beautiful landscaping layout.

To Secure Plates For New School

With the major part of the work done on the new George Washington junior high school, one of the few things remaining is to get the proper plates made for installation in the hallway. Architect A. L. Thayer requested the school board Thursday evening to provide him with the names that are to go on the plate, and this will be done. It will include the names of the board, the secretary and the superintendent.

Lightning killed five men in the South last week; and their neighbors know why, if they ever intimated they might vote for Hoover this time.

Makes Reports On Pupils' Attendance At Summer School

In a report of the summer school term which closed some time ago, which report was made Thursday evening to the New Castle school board by Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent, it was shown that out of an enrollment of 1059, the average attendance was 857. The attendance was divided as follows: Grades 1 to 6, enrollment 496, average attendance 427. Grades 7 to 12, enrollment 563, average attendance 480.

The number of pupils who made up failures was 445. The number of pupils taking advanced work was: Elementary 32, Junior and Senior 212. Number of pupils promoted 1031. Number of pupils who failed 82.

Ocean Fliers Not Dare Devils But Torches Of Progress, Says Junkers

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Transoceanic aviators, whether they fly into space to return no more or sail into renown, are brilliant torches in the march of progress, not simply dare-devils, in the opinion of Professor Hugo Junkers, world famous German aeroplone manufacturer.

Professor Junkers, who made known his views during a recent visit to America, declared that to call these men suicide aspirants or useless searchers for fame was unjust and incorrect.

"History has too often made dare-devils into martyrs of an idea and of great discovery," he said. "Columbus and Hagellan were the scatter-brains and useless dreamers of their day. They did not wait for the development of the twin screw steamship. They used the best ships at hand."

Built Huenefeld Plane.

It was the big Junkers organization which built the plane in which Baron Huenefeld and his two companions flew from Germany to this country. The Junkers machines are known for their stability and general air worthiness. Their maker disclaimed all financial or organizational connection with any ocean flights, but declared heartily in favor of those who attempted trips over water.

He condemned the argument that present day aviators should wait until a more suitable machine is developed for ocean flying.

"Persuasive as this argument appears," he pointed out, "it is incorrect. It lies in the nature of every development of communications that the intermediate stage of pure venture cannot be skidded."

Junkers declared American air traffic would soon outstrip European. He said he welcomed the recent transfer of the endurance flying record from German to American hands, inasmuch as this would be a stimulant for German aviation.

It is wrong to deny practical value to long flights, the veteran flying machine maker asserted. Problems resulted from them which could be got in no other way, and which resulted in progress, he declared.

"It is always the great problem that produces the exceptional accomplishment," he added. "The development of aviation would not have been possible without the type of man who takes risks. The further development will also not be able to do without the cultivation of courage and resolution. A stake for an ideal object has never yet been in vain, even if the one or the other did not gain a name by the loss of a life. The individual may perish, but the movement itself is driven forward by those ready-to-venture men who do not flinch at danger.

"We can distinguish the action of two fundamentally different but independent types of men in all fields; the conservative and pioneer, the man who stakes all on one card, the man of great risks. This is the man of progress. Such as he broaden the boundary of human energy and action. Such men create tension, urge and healthful obstruction; in a word, development."

Praises Venture.

The manufacturer denied, however, that to every venture could be attributed a moral value simply because it was a venture.

"That would be too far reaching a conclusion," he said. "It goes without saying the venture is also subject to criticism, and one must condemn every venture where the object is not great enough to justify the risk, or where the degree of probability of success is too small.

"This measure is somewhat elastic, however, and history has revised many a judgment that contemporaries passed. When we look back from the standpoint of our stage of technical development, we may say with good reason that the history of development consisted at first only of attempts with unsuitable means."

Autos Kill 356 In Connecticut, 1927 Figures

By R. T. BULKELEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 17.—Motor vehicles caused the deaths of 356 persons last year and did property damage totaling $2,763,341, according to the fourth annual study of motor vehicle accidents done, by Yale university under the Hartley Corporation foundation. Professor Richard Shelton Kirby of Yale's civil engineering department, conducted the study.

Among his finding Professor Kirby lists the facts:

September and November were the worst months for fatal accidents. The death list was seven times that of 1910 but not much greater than those from 1922 to and 1925.

High Death Rate.

Connecticut for ten years has had a higher death rate from auto accidents than New York, Rhode Island or Massachusetts, her neighbors.

The state death rate from disease has decreased since 1917 while the rate of auto deaths has jumped 50 per cent, and deaths from autos form one-third of all accidental deaths.

The eight mile stretch of Boston Post road from New Haven to Milford is the deadliest highway in the state.

Two-thirds of all motor accidents were collisions between cars, and most of the accidents occurred by day in clear weather and on good roads, but more than half came at street intersections.

Connecticut gets $3,000,000 from its tax on gasoline, and motor cars then proceeded to take over two and three-quarters millions in property damage by accidents.

Drivers Blamed.

The motor vehicle operator was to blame for 75.8 per cent of accidents in 1927, and of these 13.7 per cent came from inattention, 16 from miscalculation, 16.7 from failure to grant right of way, 8.6 to skidding, 2.6 to driving on the wrong side, 3.7 to careless backing, 1.6 to inexperience, 1.4 to failure to signal, 2.1 to following too closely, 4.2 to going too fast for conditions, 1.7 to intoxication and 3.4 to miscellaneous conditions.

Pedestrians are blamed for 10.8 per cent of the accidents. Children were involved in more than half of these accidents. The chief reasons were crossing streets and stepping from behind other cars.

There were contributing factors to 7.5 per cent of the accidents, including motormen, bicycles, animals and unknown operators of machines. Defective equipment caused 3.5 per cent of the accidents.

LOEWENSTEIN REPORT DENIED

Expert Making Analysis Denounces Poison Story As Fantasy

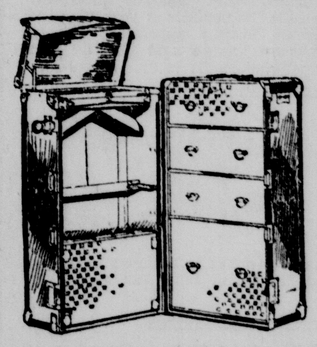

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Reports that poison had been found in the viscera of Captain Alfred Loewestein the Belgian financier who was killed when he fell or stepped from an airplane 4,000 feet above the English channel were denounced as "pure fantasies" today by experts who were analyzing the organs.

The report was originally attributed to Dr. Paul in a dispatch received a few days ago from Boulogne. He denied its authenticity and was joined in that denial by Dr. Kohn-Abrest the latter being the analyst appointed by the Boulogne court. Both said that their work was not finished.

"Up to now there is nothing to support the poison theory' said Dr. Paul. "I never said there was nor that there was any indication of a toxic condition in the intestines. For the very good reason that Dr. Kohn-Abrest with whom I discussed the subject will not have finished his experiments for another fortnight. It will be a week after that before my report is ready."

SAYS DRIVERS AT FAULT AT PARKSTOWN CORNER

According to Constable Robert McClenahan, the cause of accidents at the Parkstown corner on the Youngstown-New Castle road, is not the fact that warning signs are not erected, but the fact that drivers pay no attention to the signs.

The corner is marked with warning signs, with bullseye signs and with white lines showing a curve, and in every other way that turns are marked, he says.

"The trouble is that drivers do not pay attention to the warnings. What is needed is not more signs, but for drivers to pay attention to the warnings that are up. I have driven this curve at 35 miles an hour and have no trouble. The trouble is not with the curve or the conditions, but with the drivers."

Signs are of no use if they are not heeded, he added.

Four Women Face Murder Charge In Poison Death

Fifth Sought After Cincinnati Man Dies In Newport, Ky.

NEWPORT, Ky., Aug. 17.—Charges of murder filed against two sisters here today raised to four the number of women now charged with murder in connection with the death here 10 days ago of Frank Rickman, 25, Cincinnati. A fifth woman is being sought.

The sisters were Marie Brown, 21, and Goldie Brown, 24, both of Cincinnati. They were arrested last night and are in jail here.

Police allege the Brown girls told conflicting stories of their presence at the house where Rickman died.

Rickman died of poisoning, according to an analysis made of his stomach by a city chemist.

The others who face murder charges in connection with the man's death are Mrs. Mary Jane Rohan, Newport and Hazel Gordon, 21.

They are under $5,000 bond and are to be given a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

Mrs. Rohan, who kept house where the young woman roomed, and the Gordon woman say Rickman entered their house while ill and they tried to aid him before he died. They insisted that the poisoning did not occur in the Rohan home.

Audinos Complaint Against Water Co. Rejected By Council

Council today decided that Joseph Audino, Taylor street, has no bona-fide complaint against the New Castle Water Company.

He complained recently that a sewer had been constructed, but that he could not get water service.

Today the company advised council that the property, as well as others formerly had received service through properties in the rear.

Later the company built a main in Taylor street and the connections were made to the curb.

None of the properties have connected with the service lines, the officials maintain, and the main therefore is not bringing in revenue.

Councilman Davies, after hearing the company's side, remarked: "Mr. Audino has no complaint".

"Faithless In Business," Wife Says Of Husband; Held For Killing Him

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 17.—"He tried to cheat me—

"So I killed him. And now I'm sorry."

Police say that is the story told them by Mrs. Nora Dezotell, wife of a slain electric shop proprietor, when she gave herself up after her husband had been shot.

"He was cheating me"—so runs her confession. "He wasn't playing square.

"He was removing stock from our store, which we operated jointly, and sending it out of the state without telling me."

The tragedy occurred after Mrs. Dezotell called police from her home and told them there would be trouble between her and Dezotell.

As officers rushed to her home she drove to the store. The first shot killed Dezotell. Then she hurried to the police station and surrendered.

Scores of persons witnessed the killing.

Plan New Bank To Get Farmer Vote For Smith

Report Daring Plan To Be Tried By Democratic Party Leaders

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Wall Street was stirred today by apparently well-founded reports that the Democratic campaign managers are seriously considering one of the most daring plans of appeal for the farm vote ever suggested in American politics—a plan to organize a New York bank with $50,000,000 capital to extend easy credit to the agricultural regions for the marketing of the now maturing crops.

A. F. C. Fiske, well known in the financial district for his connection with one of the largest insurance companies in the country, acknowledged today that "informal discussion" of such a plan had occurred.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and William F. Kenny, wealthy New York contractor, who was the principal financial backer of the Smith pre-convention campaign, are named in Wall Street gossip as two of those interested in the preliminary discussions of the project.

Raskob declined to discuss the Wall Street reports further than to affirm that a suggestion had been made to him by farm leaders earlier this week that wealthy friends of Governor Smith league together in some plan to assist the farmers during the campaign.

Muny Golf Course Is Now Assured

Offutt, Tully And Smith Are Named To Be In Charge Of Development

COURSE WILL BE READY NEXT YEAR

New Castle will have an 18 hole municipal golf course next year according to action taken by council today and augmented by information furnished by city councilmen.

According to council's action today the development of the course will be under the jurisdiction of W. J. Offutt, chairman, H. L. Gordon, Robert Tully and James Smith.

They were named to supervise the construction by the recreation board at its meeting yesterday and the recommendation was presented and approved by council today.

The recreation board is in the department of parks and playgrounds of which Councilman Tyler is superintendent. It has not been determined who will have charge of the course after completion.

Recently the golf enthusiasts committee asked council to provide a sum between $6000 and $8000, for the development work which naturally must start this fall.

Councilman Davies today stated that arrangements have been made by the city to pay for the development as the work proceeds and the money will come from the fund appropriated for playgrounds.

Legislation converting the municipal farm into a park for recreation and also for the purchase of Emerick land, aggregating 10 acres, is to be adopted.

The committee of citizens has arranged to pay the option price of $1000, on the land so that it can be secured for the city.

Oppose Plan To Change Tracks On City Square

B. K. Thacker, secretary representing the Garden club presented a resolution to council in session at city hall expressing ths club's opposition to allowing the P.-O. company to cut the west portion of the public square so that street cars can be rerouted.

The company maintains that the present system deadlocks traffic and by looping the lower half of the square the situation could be overcome.

A Provisional President for Mexico wouldn't be new. All of them hold office—provided.

Mr. Tyler was at the city building Thursday and will probably be able to attend the meeting for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition

English Pastor Up On Charges Gains Acquittal

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 17.—An investigation, probing deep into the personal life and activities of an English clergyman, has ended with a complete acquittal on all charges save that of using "foul language," thereby occasioning scandal and offense in the parish.

The clergyman is the Rev. O. E. Hayden, rector of Avening, Gloucestershire. His case, which aroused publicity throughout the country, was investigated by a commission specially appointed by the Bishop of Gloucester.

The charges against the minister were as follows:

List of Charges

That he paid court night and day to a member of his flock, Miss Nina Chippe.

That he sought the company of Miss Winifred Lillian Sharpe, and on one occasion kissing her.

That he failed to visit and administer to the sick.

On these four charges, he was found guilty, and a fifth, that he visited saloons with a frequency unbecoming a minister, was withdrawn.

The commission sat as a trial court, and sensation testimony was taken. Members of the parish testified for and against the minister, and his chief upholders were the young women involved in the suit. They denied that the minister has approached them in any unbecoming way.

One of the chief features of the case was the charge that the Rev. Hayden had spent much of his time in ale-houses near the parish, and that he had often treated habitues of the place to drinks. The commission found there were no grounds for this allegation, and the charge withdrawn.

Used Bad Language

The Rev. Hayden, who is married, stoutly denied all the charges, but admitted that on one or two occasions he had used rather strong language. In this connection, the commission returned the following verdict:

"Your commissioners found that the Rev. O. E. Hayden had on several occasions between the year 1921 or thereabouts, and the year 1928, been guilty of swearing and of using foul language, thereby causing scandal in the parish of avening, in consequence of which the ecclesiastical duties of the benefice of Avening are inadequately performed, and that such inadequate performance is due to the negligence of the incumbent of said benefice."

The case will now be considered by the Bishop.

British Baron Likes Ways Of Modern Youth

By HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 17.—Youth in revolt is a spectacle pleasing to the eye of Sir Edward Sharp, English baronet and the only titled delegate to the 10th convention of the world's Sunday School Association recently in session here.

Those who rail at the extremities of the young in modern times lack the imagination and insight to pierce through the veil of changing dress, changing morals and changing customs, and to discover a pure, though troubled, heart, the English nobleman believes.

It is a healthy revolt that youth in all countries of the world are carrying on, Sir Sharp holds, a revolt against false ideals and dishonesty. And the worldwide rebellion of the young generation is headed straight for the restoration of men's minds of the simple teachings of Christ.

Healthy Insurgence

"Youth seeks," the titled delegate declared today. "It is in a state of healthy insurgence. The tumultous quest through the jungles of modern hypocrisy, crass materialism and dishonest sham is leading our young back to the fundamental rules propounded in the simple words of Christ.

"The revolt of youth is not against the Christian teachings of brotherly love and peace on earth, but in behalf of them. Youth shall lead a torn and strife ridden world back to the basic principles of Christianity."

The pessimistic fears of the old and mentally weary hold no attraction for the baronet, who, himself, is a man well along in years. He is young in spirit and his bright eyes glisten with animation as he talks of youth and its problems.

The prevalent impression that the young are deserting the churchly fold is scorned by Sir Sharp and the notion, spread by popular novels and psuedo-psychologists, that cold disillusionment has supplanted the simple faith of the fathers, meets with vigorous denial from the lips of the baronet.

Increased Attendance

"The steadily increasing attendance at Sunday school in England, the United States and all countries of the world is proof that no wholesale desertion of the church is to be found among the young," Sir Sharp averred.

"The church is winning back the boys and girls. They soon tire of callous disillusionment and seek the warmth of faith. Despite the modern teachings of science and the newer theories of life, youth's recognition of the simple teachings of the Bible will not be denied."

The flaming youth idea with its extreme sexual suggestions, Sir Sharp concluded, is more a figment of the adult imagination than an actuality in the ranks of the young.

Chestnut Street Man Has Three Legged Rabbit

C. A. Wise of 710 Chestnut street is the proud possessor of a three legged rabbit. The bunny with two legs behid and one in the fore is perfectly normal with the exception of the one missing leg and is healthy like any other rabbit.

Mr. Wise obtained the rabbit near Princeton and brought him home and is going to keep him for a pet. The rabbit gets along quite well, the missing leg not seeming to impede his jumps whatsoever.

A four winged goose is also a pet at the home of Mr. Wise who is a local collector of freak pets. The bird is several years old and normal in every other way with the exception of the extra pair of wings.

Levine May Try Paris-New York Flight In Plane

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Charles A. Levine, American flyer and owner of the trans-Atlantic plane Columbia, is a figure in a sensational race among flyers here to be the first to hop off for the United States and make a non-stop flight.

Levine said he was going to London today to arrange to get trans-Atlantic weather reports from the British meteorological office. If he succeeds he will return here to resume preparations for the flight. He hopes to get away before the first of September, although the Junkers plane he bought at Dessau won't be delivered to him until August 24. That would allow only a few days for trials.

If, in the meantime, French or other airmen hop off and succeed in reaching New York, Levine said he would change his plans. In that event, he declared, he might try a distance or duration record by attempting a non-stop flight to the Orient.

Bert Acosta will pilot the Junkers plane and Miss Mabel Boll, the "Queen of Diamonds", will accompany the two men if they try a trans-Atlantic flight, but it is doubtful if she would do so if they attempt a sly journey to India.

POLICE ARE ATTACKED

Crime Commission Finds Criminal Complaints Have Been Suppressed

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The Chicago crime commission poured another broadside against the police Thursday.

A report prepared by special investigators for the commission charged that more than 60,000 criminal complaints made to the Chicago police in the past two years have been suppressed.

Bombings have been written on the police records as "malicious mischief" said the report and attacks on women have been classified as "accidents." Complaints of pocket picking have not gotten into the record at all in some instances the investigators said.

Although the report criticizes practices alleged to have been prevalent during the police commissionership of Michael Hughes it was pointed out that Hughes himself had been of great assistance to the investigators in uncovering the facts. It was made clear that neither Hughes nor his predecessor at the head of the police department Morgan Collins were responsible for the conditions charged.

Mostly, said the report, the suppression of complaints was traceable to precinct captains who sought in this way to make their records look better than they really were.

Believe Woman Was Burned To Death In Feud

Police Think Victim Knew "Too Much" About Bank Robbery In Illinois

CROWN POINT, Ind., Aug. 17.—The charred body of a woman, about 20 or 25 years old, said by a coroner's physician to have been burned to death, was found in a desolate moor three miles from here Thursday.

Police say they believe she is "the woman who knew too much" of the $12,000 bank robbery Monday at McHenry, Ill., and that she was "taken for a ride" by members of the gang.

It is their contention that she was the sweetheart of Angelo Francisco of Chicago, whose body was found yesterday in a bullet-riddled automobile in a corn field near Mount Prospect, Ill.

Farmers near the scene heard gun shots at 1 this morning and found the body at daybreak.

Dr. C. R. Pettibone, who performed a post-mortem said a pistol shot had passed through her jaw, but the wound was not sufficient to have caused unconsciousness or death. He offered the opinion that she had been shot, then soaked with gasoline and burned while yet alive.

Lindy Junior Club

Dear Boys and Girls:—

So we have decided to call our club the Lindy Junior club! Most of the letters sent into The News this week have voted for this name as the very best one for our club. Because there is not enough space to print all the letters this week, I am only printing a few. But every letter will be published in time, so if you can't find your letter today, look for it next week or the next.

One of the letters that seems to express the wishes of most of the members is as follows:

Dear Ma Newc:—

I think Lindy Junior is a very nice name for our club. Lindy is America's hero and I suggest that if every boy and girl agree, we could have that for our club's name. I am

ROBERTA CAMPBELL,
301 East Street.

Several other good names were also suggested, such as the O.K.M.N.X. club, by Bertha Rosen, who evidently is a Barney Google fan; the Junior Flying Corps, by Virginia Gray, who also tells us how much she enjoys the "Things to Do and Make" as she has no brothers or sisters to play with; the Worth-While club, by Evelyn Levine, who says she thinks that the club is interesting and hopes that the members will send in worth-while con-tri-bu-tions; the Wonderland club, by Harvey Sherman, who enjoys the Boys' Things to Make but says that the girls' column is too "sissified" for him.

All these names are very good indeed and I am sorry that we can't use every one of them. However, I am very glad to put the names of these industrious boys and girls in our club honor roll.

We are going to have a most interesting contest next week and I will tell you about it in my next letter. Don't forget to look for the club page every Friday because I know you will be interested in what I have for you. Before I say goodbye for this week, let's give three loud cheers for the Lindy Junior club. Rah! Rah! Rah!

Your friend,
MA NEWC.

A TOY BAND FOR LITTLE BOYS AND GIRLS

Before little boys and girls are old enough to take real music lessons on real instruments, they may have a band with what are called "toy instruments." To make a drum, use an oatmeal or rolled-oats box and hold it hor-i-zon-tal-ly. (Ask mother to tell you what that word means.) If you wish, cover the box with colored paper and fasten strings across it to make it look like a real drum. Also fasten a string to each end, which will slip around your neck in order to carry the drum. Use any short sticks for drum-sticks. Two tin lids taken from mother's pots and pans can be used as cymbals. Coarse sandpaper glued on two blocks of wood (building blocks will do) may be rubbed together to keep time with the music.

A musical "kazoo" costs but five or ten cents, and when you hum or sing through it softly, it plays just like a real saxophone. A tambourine may be made from the top of a round cardboard box. Make holes all around the edges and tie on small bells—the kind that are used for horse reins.

These instruments may not sound so well if played by themselves, so either ask big sister to play on the piano while you keep time, or play your instruments with a Victrola record. Do you know, there are phonograph records made especially for use with "toy orchestras"?

BOOKS EVERY CHILD SHOULD READ

"Hans Brinker" by Mary Mapes Dodge is the story of a Dutch boy and his little sister, who are very poor and who, through their courage and devotion are able to restore their father's health, he having been injured while mending the dykes of his beloved country. Exciting skating matches and trips to all parts of Holland, give us a good picture of the queer Dutch customs and the games and plays of their children who, strangely enough, are very like their little American cousins.

POEMS EVERY CHILD SHOULD READ

My Shadow.

By Robert L. Stevenson.

I have a little shadow, that goes in and out with me,
And what can be the use of him is more than I can see.
He is very, very like me, from the heels up to the head,
And I see him jump before me, when I jump into bed.

The funniest thing about him is the way he likes to grow,
Not at all like proper children, when is always very slow;
For he sometimes shoots up taller, like an India rubber ball,
And he sometimes gets so little that there's none of him at all.

He hasn't got a notion of how children ought to play,
And can only make a fool of me, in every sort of way;
He stays so close beside me, he's a coward you can see,
I'd think shame to stick to nursie as that shadow sticks to me.

One morning very early, before the sun was up,
I rose and found the shining dew on every butter-cup,
But my lazy little shadow, like an errant sleepy-head,
Had staid at home behind, and was fast asleep in bed.

WORTH WHILE DEEDS OF YOUNG FOLKS

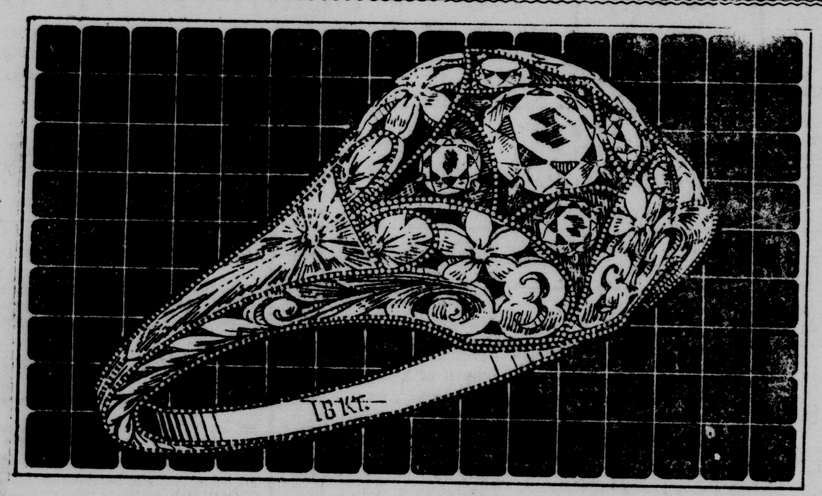

"Nine-Year-Old Lad Swims 14 Miles in Four Hours." These were the headlines that told of the marvelous feat of a boy who probably is no older than you! He swam the Delaware river from Philadelphia to Chester, a distance of 14 miles, in three hours, 58 minutes. When he was lifted to the wharf after his long swim and greeted by the mayor and a crowd of cheering spectators, he said he "felt fine and wasn't a bit tired." When boys use their energy in developing themselves physically as did this lad, they are using their time to the best of advantage. Just as school work develops the mind and church develops morals, so swimming, the most healthful of all outdoor exercises, makes strong upright and red-blooded young Americans.

Insurance Man Accused Of Vast Embezzlements Charges Business Plot

By IONE QUINBY
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 17.—"I am innocent of embezzlement and the victim of unscrupulous persons who wish to force me out of control of the International Life Insurance Company of St. Louis, through persecution," is the explanation of Roy C. Toombs, president of the insurance company, who is accused by insurance examiners from 10 states of taking $3,500,000 worth of securities alleged to be missing from the insurance company's vault.

"I own 20,000 of the 37,500 shares of the company, and I have been threatened with everything a man can be threatened with unless I agreed to sign over the business to another life insurance company," the accused head continued.

"Business Too Good"

"When I bought the International Life Insurance Company I carried the deal through myself, and I have since paid off my indebtedness of $2,000,000 which I borrowed from the Central Trust Company of New York. I have been president of the company since last October and since then the business has increased 50 per cent a month. It's been so good, in fact, that others are trying to force me out."

Briefly said, but a lengthy speech for a man whose reputation for terse speaking has been compared to "Silent Cal", Roy Toombs reiterates his declaration that the company is in good condition and that the assets are $40,000,000 or more.

ROY C. TOOMBS

He also denies transferring 12,000 shares of the International Life Company's stock to the Misouri State Life Insurance Company with a view to selling out the business and assets for one-third their value. Toombs blames his present predicament to persecution by persons who wanted him to do this very thing.

Had Spectacular Rise

Forty-one years of age, Toombs is known in Chicago as a quiet, peaceful chap, one who made a spectacular rise in business and reached the heights at an early age. Until this embezzlement charge came up he was president of three financial corporations, the Downers Grove Trust Company of Toombs' home town, Toombs and Daily Bond and Mortgage Company, which is in the hands of a receiver, and the International Life Insurance Company. Judge William Gemmill appointed the Foreman Trust and Savings Bank as receiver of Toombs and Daily, following indication of trouble with the insurance company.

Toombs was in the limelight three years ago, when he received a series of threatening letters with the renting of a house to a Kewanee, Ill., negro, after the negro had been hired by Toombs as janitor of the bank. The writer demanded the negro's immediate removal from Downers Grove and threatened to blow up the house in which he lived if the demand was disregarded. Toombs' home is one of the show places of Downers Grove.

The accused man began as a telegraph operator in Kansas at the age of 15, and at 17 he went into an abstract office. Within five years he was appointed land appraiser for the whole Middle West by a big insurance company. Besides his reputation for terseness and keeping his own counsel, he has been known for his steady application to business. He is Micky Mullins—James McConnell.

Over 100 Orphan Children Are Present At Annual Event Of Order

GROVE CITY, Pa., Aug. 17.—Many hundreds of Odd Fellows attended the annual picnic of that order held at the Wayside Inn, just west of town, Wednesday. The young and the aged came into their own at this picnic. The children from the Odd Fellow Orphans' home at Meadville and the aged members of the order who reside in the home here were the guests of the lodges of this district at the celebration.

Over 100 children, orphans, were present and an equal number of the aged members. Hundreds of members and friends from surrounding towns attended the picnic. The program was arranged and friends from surrounding towns attended the picnic. The program was arranged with the entertainment of the younger and older guests in mind. The big event of the day was the basket lunch held in the grove on the grounds.

The speaker for the occasion was Past Grand Master of Pennsylvania John N. Mark, representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge from Pennsylvania, of Oil City. Another feature of the day was the concert given by the boys' band from the orphanage at Meadville. Following the dinner a program of sports was carried out under the management of Past Master W. J. Winters, of Sandy Lake. There were all sorts of races with entrance open to all. Prizes for the contests were donated by merchants in this district. Special prizes were also given for the three oldest Odd Fellows present at the affair. Other events of the afternoon were the inspection of the Home, which is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Eicholtz, pitching horseshoes and a reunion of old friends.

This annual celebration is held under the auspices of the picnic association of the I. O. O. F. A. L. McCartney, of Mercer, is president of this association and George Styers, of Grove City, is secretary. The children from the home in Meadville were given free transportation by the transportation committee of the association. The picnic association is made up of 16 subordinate lodges, 10 Rebekah lodges and three encampments in this district.

China And Japan Friction Is Less

China's Reply To Recent Note Received At Tokio; To Be Made Public

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 17.—A lessening of the friction between Japan and China was indicated by an exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokio today. It stated that China's reply to the recent Japanese note bearing upon some of the issues in dispute has been received at Tokio and will soon be made public.

It is reported at Tokio that the Chinese communication does not touch the question of withdrawal of China's notice that the treaty with Japan has been abrogated. It is understood that Japan will not insist upon withdrawal of the Chinese notice.

The dispatch added there is a strong feeling that China is showing a sincere desire for an agreement and is gradually abandoning the attitude of hostility towards Japan.

Held Up On Hill; Robbed Of Money

Hold-up Occurs On Mt. Jackson Hill; Two Masked Bandits Rob Man

Robert Sherer who lives on the Mt. Jackson road near the old Cross Roads school, was held up by two masked bandits in an automobile early yesterday morning as he was walking on the Mt. Jackson hill just out of the Seventh ward. Six dollars were taken by the robbers.

Sherer was walking up the hill and as he neared the top a car approached him and slowed down to a stop. Two men, one of them on the running board of the car, stopped and with leveled guns ordered him to put up his hands and hand over his money.

They searched his clothes thoroughly and took the six dollars that he had in his pockets. Ordering him to go they watched him up the road for several rods with pointed guns and then drove at a fast pace toward New Castle.

Both of the robbers were large men acording to Sherer but were masked so that no description could be gained. As his face was kept turned from the car he could not tell what make it was nor the number of the license.

Ohio In Study Of Program To Conserve Game

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A study of the New York plan for conservation of natural resources, under the conservation commission, finances and administration, is being made by James W. Stuber, secretary of the Ohio Conservation Council, Columbus, O., who is visiting New England states where marked progress is being made in conservation of forests, game and wild life, under bi-partisan forms of administration through the conservation commission plan.

The Ohio Conservation Council, made up of the Federated Women's club of Ohio, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, the League of Ohio Sportsmen, the Izaak Walton league, the Ohio Forestry association, the Ohio Archaeological & Historical society, the Ohio State grange and Farm Bureau federation, is planning a state department of conservation and drafting the legislation to be placed before the legislature in January.

Studies Problem.

While in New York, Mr. Stuber was a luncheon guest of Col. Theodore Roosevelt with whom he conferred on conservation problems, together with Edward Kelley, secretary to Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, Harold McNader of Mason City, Iowa, formerly first assistant secretary of war, and Dr. John W. Ryskin of Springfield, Mass., educational director of the Izaak Walton league.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed to the marked progress in conservation in New York as well as in Pennsylvania where deer, bear, grouse and other game is showing rapid increase. Mr. Stuber was also in conference with officials of the American Game Protective association, the Game Breeders institute and of the New York City office of the state conservation commission.

"After visiting various states where game is on the increase like in New York, I am convinced that the department of conservation plan with a non-partisan form of administration is the thing for Ohio, where more progress is needed. The way to have more game and wild life is to propagate game and make waste lands produce game.

Wild Game a Crop.

"Wild game should be regarded as a crop. It will put money in the farmers pockets. Legalizing against hunters and guns will not raise more game. Game breeding along scientific lines is needed in every state. Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut are all making rapid strides in replacement of game, and wild life. Ohio is not. The forestry program goes hand in hand with the more game movement. I have received reliable information of deer within the city limits of New York City, increase in deer and other game near Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn., and Pennsylvania, shot out 25 years ago, is overrun with deer to my actual knowledge. This shows what can be done in game replacement under proper methods close to civilization, even in densely populated regions," Mr. Stuber, who is also a member of the editorial staff of Sportsman's Digest, a big game hunter and conservationist, related.

Report Less Cases Of Typhoid Fever

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—Dr. J. Moore Campbell, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases said today that so far 1928 has been a record one for the lack of typhoid fever in the state.

"The number of cases reported in this commonwealth during the past seven months is noticeably less than the number for the same period of the preceding year," said Dr. Campbell. "The situation is undoubtedly due in some measure to precaution methods which the citizens have themselves adopted upon the advice of the State Health department and local health officials, as well as upon the improved sources of highway water supplies and better attention to the individual rural sources.

"Vacation typhoid has as yet not made any noticeable trouble," Dr. Campbell said. "However, the next eight or ten weeks will undoubtedly raise the typhoid figures. A very definite proportion of these cases will represent carelessness on the part of the victims themselves in their use of unsafe milk and water supplies when away from home."

Bombay Court Will Settle Copyright On Films Made In U. S.

(International News Service)

BOMBAY, Aug. 17.—The important legal point of whether the registration and production of a motion picture in the United States guarantees its copyright in India, is soon to be decided by the Bombay high court.

The point has arisen in the court of a motion for an interim injunction by Douglas Fairbanks and others against "The Indian Pictures Distributors," restraining the defendants from infringing upon the plaintiffs' copyright in the film "The Thief of Bagdad."

The plaintiffs allege that the Indian distributing company imported into India and distributed for exhibition authorized copies and imitations of the film alleged to have been made in France. The producers ask for an injunction and damages.

The defendants have denied that the films in their possession are unauthorized copies or imitations, and further contended that the film was not copyrighted in the British territories.

A temporary injunction has been issued in favor of the plaintiffs, and a definite decision is expected shortly.

Black Bottom And Charleston Dances Are Losing Favor

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The little street dances held all over the capital on Bastille Day, in spite of a temperature of 96 in the shade, seem to point to a great falling off in popularity of eccentric steps such as the Black Bottom and Charleston. The forms of dancing this year were on the whole very simple, with a marked return to the waltz and the polka in the popular districts and the tango holding second honors.

The brass wind instrument, once so conspicuous, has given way to the accordion and violin or cello. The orchestra of eight or ten players is now reduced to three or four.

London At Mercy Of Plane Attack

Maneuvers With Fleet Of Planes Are Concluded; Lessons Drawn

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 17.—London lies at the mercy of the enemy should a powerful fleet of from 100 to 200 bombing planes be sent against it, according to the lessons drawn today from the four-day airplane maneuvers to test the aerial defenses which came to an end at midnight.

But this presumed helplessness against air raiders from a nation powerful in planes, is only theoretical. One of the chief reasons for the "attacks" against the city from the sky was to show wherein the defenses should be strengthened. The work of perfecting air defenses through larger sky fleets and more effective counter attacks from high angle guns will be undertaken by the government later.

For hours last night thousands stood in the streets craning their necks to get a glimpse of the "battle" high in the clouds between groups of pursuit planes and "enemy" machines guarding the bombers. It was a thrilling spectacle. Powerful searchlights played upon the planes as they darted back and forth through the clouds. There were many in the crowds who had seen actual air raids during the war and attacks by British planes against raiding German Zeppelins.

GOODYEAR

Here's the Proof of Quality

Let us show you this simple test.

Two cords of exactly the same length—one Goodyear-developed and Goodyear-patented SUPERTWIST, the other the usual standard cord—are placed on these machines. Exactly the same amount of strain is given both—then released. What happens?

SUPERTWIST snaps back to its original tautness like a rubber band. The other cord sags—remains inert. It has lost its spring. You see the comparative tension illustrated in the foreground.

We start again in the same way—fresh SUPERTWIST cord, fresh cord of the usual standard—both the same length. The strain is applied—increased. SNAP! the cord breaks, while SUPERTWIST remains intact. That's what happened on the machine in the background.

There's the proof of SUPERTWIST'S superiority before your eyes. Goodyear Tires, made of SUPERTWIST, stretch and recover under road shocks. Tires made of ordinary cord lack this resiliency and react as you have just seen.

The elasticity—the durability of SUPERTWIST has eliminated blowouts and similar troubles.

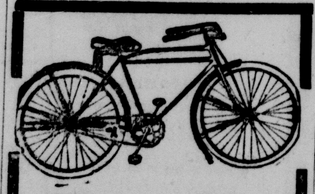

That's why we sell Goodyears—because we know they will stand the gaff of hard service.

Come in soon. It will be a pleasure to perform this interesting test for you.

The shaded portion in this cross-section of a tire shows the cord-fabric which is the strength and foundation of any casing. In Goodyear tires this fabric is made of patented Supertwist cords. Only Goodyear uses Supertwist.

Lightning Bolt Photographed In Power Plant

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Photographing of a bolt of lightning as it struck a 220,000 volt transmission line at a power station at Lake Wallenpaupeck, Pa., has been accomplished by General Electric Company engineers and the study of the results of the bolt and close scrutiny of the picture, are expected to be invaluable in working out a system of protecting those lines.

No devices for protecting the lines have yet been worked out, as the study is only in the laboratory stage, continuing the work of Charles P. Steinmetz, who at the time of his death was studying lightning and high voltage transmission.

Voltage Increased

It was learned by the photograph produced in an instant that the voltage in the line was increased to 2,500,000 when struck by lightning. The line struck is a part of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company's system.

The picture was obtained on July 27 and discloses the terrific increase in voltage after the bolt hit the line. The study permitted covered only forty-millionths of a second after the line was struck. After that it decreased with many oscillations to the normal 220,000 volts.

The oscillograph was erected in a steel structure to protect the delicate machinery. The oscillograph is an adoption of the cathode ray, which has brought many honors to Dr. W. D. Coolidge of the General Electric Company.

The thunder storm and electrical display came just one week after the machinery had been installed and put in working order. The study of lightning on high tension wires was begun in order to devise means of protecting them. The study also may contribute to a better understanding of transporting current at even higher and consequently cheaper voltages.

English Woman Is Shocked By Girls And Scanty Dress

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 17—"Grannie Hoadley, who has just celebrated her 105th birthday, has not a good word to say for the miss of 1928.

"The modern girls," she stated. "shock me, with their short skirts and bare arms and low necks. Indecent I call them. And as for smoking like the boys, and chopping their hair off—well."

Grannie Hoadley, who has 32 grandchildren and 39 great grandchildren does not look older than 75. She is still able to get about, and goes to church very often which she declares is the only place where the girls of today do not assemble.

Seven Doctors Failed: Konjola Brought Relief

Two Years Of Stomach Misery Terminated By Powerful New Medicine.

MR. JOHN B. HUNTER

Like life-giving rain after a long drouth; like sunshine after the storm, Konjola, the new medicine, is proving a boon and a blessing to scores of sufferers, in New Castle and vicinity. Daily the Konjola Man is telling eager questioners about this wonderful remedy for troubles for the victims of the dreaded rheumatism and neuritis. Those who suffer are invited—urged—to see the Konjola Man at the Love & Megown Drug Store, 204 Washington Street, New Castle. Tell him your symptoms; he will show you what Konjola has done for hundreds who once suffered as you do, and who are now well. Read, for instance the statement Mr. John B. Hunter, 1116 Dewey Avenue, this city, made to the Konjola Man.

"You can imagine", said Mr. Hunter, beaming with new health and new interest in life," what I think of Konjola when I tell you that it restored me to health after seven doctors failed to do me the least bit of good. For two years I suffered from stomach trouble. Every bit of food I ate laid like a rock in the pit of my stomach, causing terrible pains. Constipation developed, and the strongest of laxatives were necessary. Finally even these failed partially, and I was in a serious condition.

"An acquaintance told me about Konjola, and though I was about disgusted with two years of failure, I thought I might as well take one more chance. Well, two bottles of this new medicine removed all my troubles. Think of that—after doctoring for two years without result except expense. I am better and stronger already than I was before my stomach trouble started, and you can use my name to anyone who suffers as I did. I'm certainly strong for Konjola".

Reports of quick permanent and surprising recoveries like this are old stories to the Konjola Man; he hears them every day, for the delighted users of Konjola are always so grateful for quick and, in many cases, unexpected relief, that they come back to tell what Konjola has meant to their health and happiness. It is only reasonable to presume that what Konjola has done for countless thousands of others it will do for you. All Konjola asks is the privilege of making you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown Drug Store, 204 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Closed Doors and Open

Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

About seven years after the beginning of his first missionary journey Paul determined to make a second journey to visit the churches he and Barnabas has established on their first tour. The makeup of the missionary party is interesting because of the dispute between Paul and Barnabas over taking with them John. Mark, who had played the John Mark, who had played the part of a quitter on the first tour. The result was that Barnabas took Mark, his nephew, while Paul took Silas, and, so, there were two missionary projects instead of one. At Lystra, Timothy joined the party of Paul, and Luke was added at Troas.

Closed Doors

Paul was not satsified with just covering the ground gone over in the previous tour. His restless soul hungered for new fields and longer battle fronts. Paul's first plan was to push on straight west to the province of Asia in the extreme western part of Asia Minor. But we read here "they were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia." This was closed door number one.

Forbidden thus to go west we learn from Paul's letter to the Galatians that they turned sharply northeast into Galatia where Paul was smitten down for a time with sickness. This was closed door number two.

Following this delay Paul decided to strike straight north to Bythinia on the southern shore of the Black Sea. But again we read, "after they were come to Mysia they assayed to go into Bythinia: but the Spirit suffered them not." This was closed door number three.

What could it all mean? Why this check-mating of the missionaries' every move? Why are our sincerest efforts so often thwarted by closed doors?

The Open Door To Europe

The whole series of closed doors is clearly explained in what immediately followed in the vision granted Paul of the open door into the great untouched continent of Europe. "A vision appeared to Paul in the night: there stood a man of Macedonia and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us. And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel unto them." So, the open door of larger service explains the closed doors of sickness, reverses and every other strange providence of God who plans our life course. For every door he closes to us he will provide an open door if we only wait patiently and watch prayerfully for it.

The Gospel Enters Europe

Thus the gospel entered Europe at Troas, and went on to Philippi, where a woman named Lydia, a business woman of Thyatira, became the first Christian convert in the continent of Europe. Her conversion was a typical one in that it was preceded by the preaching of the word of God and prayer, and chiefly in that it was a work of God rather than of Paul, for we read, "whose heart the Lord opened." It was typical, too, in that it was followed by obedience expressed in baptism, and service in her opening her home as headquarters for the missionaries in their further work there.

May we not ask ourselves the question, "Suppose that the gospel had gone east into China instead of west to Europe and thence still west to America? What would our lot now be? Do we appreciate its turning in our direction as we should?"

(The International Uniform Lesson for Aug. 19, is Acts 15:36-16:15, the subject being "Paul Carries the Gospel Into Europe," and the Golden Text, Acts 16:9, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us.")

Weather Drives French Capital To Drink Water

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The recent short heat wave in the French capital established another record and convinced a few skeptics that the French really do drink water. On one hot day Parisians consumed 650,000 cubic meters of drinking water, the previous highest figure, which was 10,000 cubic meters less, having been recorded two years ago. The large reservoirs around the city are, however, full and show no signs of going dry this summer. The new waterworks at Saint Maur and Ivry which are equipped with the latest filtering devices, will be ready before long. These new sources will add 500,000 cubic meters of water a day to the city supply.

The heat wave also caused the loss of a large number of fish in the large pond called "La Piece d'Esau des Suisses," in the gardens of the Palace of Versailles. There was plenty of water for them, but the gases arising from the mud and rotting vegetable matter in the bottom of the pond poisoned them. The pond needs a good cleaning, for it has not had one since it was constructed under Louis XVI. It would cost a mint of money to do it, so nothing is done about it and the fish have to die every year when there is a heat wave.

The Gas Company in Paris is anything but accommodating. If a gas pipe breaks or the stove explodes, one must write a letter or go around to the nearest office. There is a telephone, but the number is not to be found in the telephone book and more than that, if one calls "information" he will not receive it, either. The Gas Company simply doesn't want to be bothered answering calls and does not hesitate to make it known.

Montmartre, well known to all visiting Americans and others, is up in arms again over another attempt to spoil the rapidly disappearing picturesque hilltop. There is a proposal, it seems, to build a big block of cheap houses in the vicinity of the old rue des Saules which would do away with one of the best beloved squares which the old inhabitants prize highly. Unless the mayor and other members of the community can bring action to bear, the famous haunt of artists and tourists will be lost forever.

Paris policemen will soon be wearing green goggles. The recent heat wave is to blame for this recent order. They will also be allowed to stand in the shade when it is possible and have frequent rest periods. And yet, no word has been given to supply them with thinner uniforms and lighter headgear, but white trousers are not taboo if they care to wear them. Apparently very few of them do. They know the dark blue ones are much more chic, and even the policemen are a little "coquettish" in Paris.

Speaking of uniforms, it is whispered that several of the marshals and generals of the army are agitating the return of the old red trousers which the French first wore to war. They argue that the present horizon-blue ones are too plain and easily soiled.

A new boon for travellers in France is promised in the sleeping cars on second-class trains to the Riviera which will be introduced within a short time. It is one of the most important moves made in the domain of French travelling for many years and is certain to prove a lure to many thousands who have the means and leisure for modest travelling, who long for winter sunshine but are prevented from taking the long journey because of the high expense of French sleepers and the inconvenience of the cheaper class.

Washington Has Grievance; Wants Trees

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Numerous letters from subscribers, to the Washington newspapers, now that the presidential campaign is on, contain strenuous appeals to the country to turn thumbs down on the G. O. P., on account of the diabolical hash the District of Columbia government has been making out of the capital's looks since the Republicans last came into power.

No doubt most people who don't live here will say this is going it pretty strong — trying to make one single city's good looks the vital issue in a national election.

Well, the fact is, I do not suppose the writers of these letters really mean what they suggest.

At the same time, the Washington situation has to be seen and experienced to be appreciated.

Everybody, I take it, knows theoretically that the capital has not a word to say about its own municipal administration. But I question if many folks realize how it works out in practice.

How would St. Louis, for instance, enjoy being governed by Bangor (Me.), San Diego, Seattle and Miami?

It is likely that it would be governed thus to its own satisfaction?

Such is Washington's unhappy fix—except that responsibility for Washington's welfare is scattered in a great many more directions than any mere four points of the compass.

Not counting the Washingtonians—who have no more voice in the matter than so many Hottentots—the only people who take any keen personal interests in District of Columbia developments are a rather small group, whose chief aim is to direct them so as to fatten their individual bank accounts.

They are real estate promoters principally.

War-time Washington—previously a good deal of an overgrown village—for obvious reasons increased tremendously in population. The increase continued into the post-war period.

It attracted the realtors' attention. They resolved to make the most of it.

Perhaps they are creating a great metropolis.

They certainly are creating a hideous one.

Old-fashioned Washington's beauty always lay largely in its glorious trees—in the business as well as in the residential districts.

The real estate chaps have no use for trees. A tree, as they view it, is a dead waste of just that much space, which ought to be capitalized. Other cities have none on their main shopping streets—why Washington? Besides, they occupy room were the realtors want to park flivvers.

Native Washingtonians have fought the deforestation campaign tooth and nail for ten years, but with the steady loss of street after street, every season.

The realtors have all the "pull" with the district government.

As the present summer draws toward its close, devastated northern France had nothing, as a scene of desolation, on a considerable part of Washington.

The latest scheme evolved by the forces of progress and improvement is to pave the downtown parks and green squares and circles, with brick and asphalt.

They are needed, it seems, to serve as parking places.

By the time these boys are through with us we shall have a really fine modern city.

It may come about that Col. Lindbergh will have to go over to Paris and fly back to show the world that it can be done.—The Muncie Sunday Star.

Govt. Bureaus Adopt Trucks To Haul Money

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Government department heads here have just admitted they have been doing something that police commissioners of cities throughout the country have been advising business houses not to do—carry large payrolls through the streets.

Hundreds of paymasters have been killed in futile attempts to protect their money satchels from bandits. Millions of dollars have been stolen from commercial houses in this manner in the United States. Still Uncle Sam's paymasters continue the hazard of carrying their large payrolls from the treasury department to their bureaus located in various sections of the capital.

Armed Guards.

Accompanied by one or two armed employes, the government executives carried the currency by diverse methods. Some journeyed to the office in taxicabs. Some chose private automobiles while the less wary carried their valuable bag on street cars or even walked—a literal invitation for a holdup. Twice a month they made such expeditions.

But now official Washington is going to abide by the unofficial ruling of the police chiefs of the country. They are taking precautions against theft. Being late to recognize the danger of robbery they believe they have gone a step farther in this regard than the commercial houses. They have provided armored trucks, the most modern yet designed and as "hold-up proof" as an army tank. It would be folly to question its effectiveness in bullet fire.

Now Use Trucks.

The trucks two of them were purchased by the treasury department for use in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. They have been placed in service to deliver the payrolls to all departments of the government.

The trucks are of two-and-one-half tons and are covered with heavy armor plate. The plate covers both sides and the rear while in the front the chauffeur and armed guard are protected by bullet-proof glass. There are turret holes for pistol fire from the inside.

The administration hopes to effect a treaty to outlaw war with all nations. But in the capital it has just taken the preliminary steps for a probable battle with payroll bandits.

Three Men On A Drunk Upset 40 Tombstones

(International News Service)

CALIFORNIA, Mo., Aug 17.—Three young men on a drunken orgy upset 40 tombstones recently.

The trio made their way from grave to grave, not bothering to read the inscriptions of the stones but satisfield that they didn't like them, pulled or pushed them down.

As a result Henry Pulliam, Percy Busky and Harvey Stone, the three vandals, were arrested and bound over to the circuit court for their acts in the little field of the dead at Latham, Mo., on charges of intoxication and upsetting grave markers.

Los Angeles May Get Altar Where Gray Wrote His "Elegy"

(International News Service)

STOKE POGES, Eng., Aug. 17.—The little altar from the historic church of Stoke Poges, in the churchyard of which Gray wrote his "Elegy" may shortly adorn the "Church of the Little Flowers" near Los Angeles, Cal., if a suggestion now before the local church council receives final approval.

Drastic alterations are being carried out in the famous little church. The altar has been taken away, ugly tiles are being hidden, and exposed radiators concealed.

The alterations followed a strong report of the diocesan advisory committee on the condition of the church. The committtee expressed the opinion that the arrangement of the east end left must to be desired, the whole scheme "at present embodying nearly every fault of the Victorian era." The little altar was condemned as "neither ancient nor valuable, and much too small."

The proposal to send the altar to California arose in a romantic way. For some years the heads of the two American church is modelled along the lines of Stoke Poges, and gifts of money from the American organization to Stoke Poges have been frequent.

Some time ago the head of the American church told the vicar here how much his church would appreciate any small gift from the original church. The proposal to send the altar to California is a result. The matter now rests with the head of the situated.

Chicago Night Club Beauties Find Other And Better Jobs When Law Closes Doors Of Windy City Cabarets

Some Chicago entertainers not worried over padlock laws.

By IONE QUINBY
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 17—Now that the bright lights have been put out in a majority of Chicago places where tired businessmen flocked to find the fountain of youth and mingle with the fly-by-nights, what has become of the butterfly nymphs who danced care away, and the girls who laughed with such divine enthusiasm at the stalest jokes?

These girls, not liquor and a chance to drink it, were the magnets that drew the masculine contingent to the bright lights, night after night, according to the proprietors and hostesses of cafes and night clubs in Chicago. Trained to dash off a smile, a bright sally or a laugh, and to be featherfooted even when their feet and hearts ached, they were like a dash of paprika in the prosaic daily menu of life.

Numerous men, pates gone bald, sought the bright lights simply because they found, there, someone who would laugh heartily when they repeated that story about "Pat and Mike", or the joke about "the day I lost my hat out the window."

With the padlocking of such places as the Club Ansonio, the Moulin Rouge, the Colisimo, the Frolics and the million dollar Rainbo Gardens, these butterflies—dancers and songsters hired to entertain—have merely flitted to new fields.

Ike Evelyn Thaw, who danced not so long ago at the Moulin Rouge; Dale Winter, pretty choir singer who got a job singing at the Colisimo and then married "Big Jim" Colisimo, its proprietor and reputed underworld king, just a few weeks before he was found murdered on the cafe's doorsteps, and many others, these girls will be remembered if night clubs never open again.

Many of the night club entertainers have gone over to vaudeville, where their flattery still goes on, but diluted of personal flavor. Some of them have been engaged as entertainers at home parties, which since the putting out of bright places such as night clubs and cafes, have come more and more into vogue.

Every little group of friends in certain circles now has its own "night club". Many of them, formerly patrons at cafes and night clubs downtown, now give weekly or semi-weekly parties in home apartments and bachelor flats, and "divvy" up the bill.

One private night club recently paid one of these girls more than she received in a month at her place, just padlocked. In one of the de luxe apartment houses, where tenants pay from $500 to $1,000 a month rent, they have a night club that would put some of the padlocked ones in the shade.

Only the most brilliant of the butterfly girls and the most nimble-footed and musical-throated sing, dance and laugh at these soirees. It costs the members plenty, but it is just as exhilarating as the old night clubs, and one doesn't have so far to come home.

Los Angeles To New York In Three Hours Latest Idea

(International News Service)

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 17. — Los Angeles to New York in three hours! That is the latest in the rocket bracket."

Maurice Poirier, Burbank horologist, today had completed a model of plane which he believes will be capable of a speed of 1,000 miles an hour. Explosive rockets will propel the novel aircraft after it has been launched in flight, the inventor pointed out.

"There is no limit to the speed possible with the rocket," Poirier said. The problem is constructing a plane that will be fireproof against friction at great speeds."

Poirier's model plane is three feet long with a 42-inch wing spread. It is equipped with 86 rocket gun barrels which are designed to use a special explosive. The craft is so constructed that the pilot may electrically explode two or more rockets at a time as speed is required.

One plane is equipped with three motors, designed to be used in taking off and landing the aircraft.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To New Castle News.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Louis Eckstein, capitalist and president of the Ravinia Opera company, Chicago's summer opera on the lake shore to the north, is the latest Chicagoan to be admitted to the twentieth century peerage of Americans — men who have had royal honors and orders conferred upon them for achievements or service rendered to foreigners. He was made a Chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy the other day by King Victor Emannuel, in recognition of his assistance to Italian opera singers.

Chicago now has as many as 200 chevaliers, knights, noble lords and squires, who have had royal honors and titles conferred upon them. In fact, there is quite as much of an achievement aristocracy among masculine Chicagoans, as there is a "cold cream" and "cigaret" testimonial aristocracy among the feminine contingent. A lot of the orders and titles were conferred upon Chicago business men for assistance in the World War. Others got their titles through achievements abroad or assistance given to projects, cultural or otherwise, in foreign countries.

A half dozen well-known Chicagoans, who have been honored for one thing or another, are Edwin N. Hurley, who has orders of both the Italian crown and Ta Sho Cha Ho of the Chinese peerage, Anthony Czarnecki, D. F. Kelly, Edward Hines, Charles S. Peterson and Stuyvesant Peabody.

I understand, too, that Mrs. Mary Hastings Bradley, who has quite a record as an African explorer, got a title from a Cannibalistic king the last time she was over. She told me one day how she got into favor with the chief. "If you want to make a hit with a cannibalistic king, and don't like the idea of being put on the family menu as meat for dinner, present the old dear with a nice, big elephant," she said. "Cannibals prefer elephant meat to humans, but of course if they can't get a pachyderm they have to have something for dinner."

She found an elephant and was made an african duchess or something.

Since the patronesses of the White Elephant shop collected their new stock out of Lake Forest closets this season, they're advocating "lining silk toppers with colored silk and covering with chintz or printed silk to be used as boudoir waste baskets." Last year they sold discarded toppers of millionaires for use as opera glass bags. The idea was to cover with silk and gathered gold lace and use as bags for Ravinia.

You might—if you want to go along on the crest—take a look at the stock and pick out a nice topper for a waste basket. Can you imagine anything more intriguing than to throw your old love letters into a topper worn by Harold McCormick when he was first courting Ganna Walska? You could "high hat" your friends for sure!

Near a busy intersection on the northside, if you search long enough, you will find the only drug store in Chicago that doesn't carry a veritable department store stock, including such things as beauty accessories and bathing caps. Patrons go through one of the two telephone booths at the rear into a spacious room where there is a pre-Volstead bar and tables and a singing bartender known as "Danny."

Mistakes Poison Pills For Candy

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 17.—Following the eating of poison pills John Popadich, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Popadich of Wheatland, died in the Buhl hospital here. The boy thought the pills were candy.

For some time the little lad had been under the care of a physician and there were medicines and pills about the home. Some of the poisonous tablets were found to be missing when the boy was taken ill.

Bombs are being thrown at Seattle theaters but there is to be something more behind this than a form of protest against the shows—The Butte Miner.

Red Industries Breaking Under Graft Methods

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—Eleven years after its establishment Soviet socialistic industry is being shaken to its foundations by a sweeping reorganization, the purpose of which is to clean out grafters, loafers, dumbbells and dreamers. At least 2,000 officials, engineers and technicians have been arrested on charges varying from ordinary negligence to economic counter-revolution, the penalty for which is death. Even Communist party official little dreamed that mismanagement and corruption had assumed such gigantic proportions.

Industrial inefficiency trials that started with the great Donetz "conspiracy" proceedings against 53 engineers and mine managers in the Don basin coal region, will probably drag out for a whole year. Fifty-six engineers and officials of "Donugel," the Don basin coal trust, are already being tried on charges of graft, sabotage and economic counter-revolution.

Trials To Follow.

Similar trials will follow for hundreds of officials of the steel industry, the glass industry, the chemical and fertilizer syndicate, the Turkestan irrigation development and the building material manufactories in the Moscow district.

The factory workers are showing unmistakable signs of weariness—not with socialism which few of them understand and not with the fact that in theory at least the whole country is being run for their benefit. They are getting sick of ever-lasting changes in bosses, of speeding up drives, of production conferences which get nowhere, and of the fact that they can't buy a decent pair of shoes for less than $15, a suit of clothes for less than $100, or a portable phonograph or a flat baby's milk bottle for any price.

Workers Displeased.

The workers furthermore don't relish the idea that after eleven years of whatever government it may be their wives have to get soaked to the skin by Russian rainstorms standing in queues for hours with a few hard-earned kopeks waiting to buy a pound of brown flour. They don't comprehend a lot of other things as stupid as, for instance, the city of Moscow building workers' homes on the "beautiful shores" of the reservoir so that the city water supply became polluted.

Free vacations with pay, sick benefits, pensions and a seven-hour working day may be alright, but they don't put cash in the pockets for a life of even the most rudimentary comforts.

Inefficiency, graft and laziness characterized Russian industry in Czarist days. Costly blunders were expected by party leaders as a result of the man-made economic revolution by which it is hoped partially to change an agricultural people into a self-sustaining independent industrial nation.

Poor Organization.

An industrial shake-up a few years after the civil war might have been laughted off, but when the shake-up comes eleven years after the revolution, it might indicate that things are not organized properly.

Official statistics show that in industries established before the revolution production costs are from 50 to 100 per cent higher than pre-war. Costs are 55 per cent higher for a poorer quality of goods than in the United States though wages are only one-seventh as high as in Russia. Approximately the same comparison holds for Germany, England and France. Retails prices of manufactured products are from 100 to 1,000 per cent higher than in capitalistic countries because of the inefficient Soviet distribution system.

Communists themselves doubt whether the present wholesale reorganization will have the desired effect.

Two distinctly opposite tendencies have appeared: The first, which may make for more efficient management, is the more rigid control of state trust officials, who in turn force their subordinates to work harder. The fear of losing their jobs has been driven home for the first time, though it does not affect the laborers themselves. Secondly, the immense propaganda against hundreds of "traitor" engineers has put all professional men of the old school under suspicion.

Many believe that foreign capital will have to be called in and given complete charge of certain vital industries on terms much more favorable than those which the Soviets are ready to grant at present.

Secretary Kellogg To Visit Ireland

(International News Service)

Jazz Age Gives New Method To Pick President

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—The "jazz age" has penetrated into the inner sanctums of political chieftains whose business it is to elect the next president with the result that brand new methods of political campaigning will be used on the humble but powerful voter in the next three months.

Gone are the days of the torchlight parade and in the place of old-time tunes have come the snappy campaign songs which the modern youth can strum on the ukelele and banjo.

The radio has dealt a hard blow to the political spell-binder of little merit, and both parties will exercise greater care in sending speakers before the voters in the hinterland.

Must Be Careful

Both Herbert Hoover and Gov. Al Smith may travel far and wide but both must be careful to avoid a constant repetition of the same speech, for this constant repetition would be carried into the ears of voters by way of the radio and evoke resentment.

The old-time buttons, slogans and pictures remain, but in addition ardent party workers now demand stickers for windshields and tags for their automobiles.

The "flapper vote" cannot be ignored, and knowing that modern youth may not be following the family tradition of voting either Republican or Democratic both parties are preparing special appeals to the young men and women of the nation.

But while the radio is raised in popular imagination to a high place in the campaign, the campaign chiefs are placing their old reliance in the printed word by way of the newspapers and pamphlets. Newspaper advertising will figure prominently in the campaign for it, the strategists believe, will hold the eye longer than a mere radio announcement holds the ear.

Requests For Speeches

"We have had just as many requests for copies of speeches by Mr. Hoover as we ever did," said a veteran attache of the Republican national headquarters. "These are second in interest, it is indicated, only to what Mr. Hoover will say in his speech of acceptance at Palo Alto.

Slogan writers are busy. The Republican headquarters has been deluged with suggestions for a winning slogan. Perhaps the most discussed to date is that of Sen. George H. Moses, who suggested, "Hoover or Havoc" as a counterpart to the "Coolidge or Chaos" slogan of 1924.

Strangely enough slogans dealing with the wet issue are few.

Inventor Granted Award By England

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 17—A rifle invented by an American has gained the British Government's $15,000 award for the best automatic self-loading rifle.

Basically designed by General John Thompson the small arms expert of the U. S. Army, the weapon has been manufactured and perfected by the Birmingham Small Arms Company, noted small armaments firm.

The weapon is simple in construction and with it the ordinary British soldier will be able to shoot twice as many shots as he can now with the hand operated rifle, or about 35 shots per minute.

It is claimed by the British War Office that this weapon, backed up by the modern machine gun, would be sufficient for any army to meet almost any requirement of modern battle tactics.

Considering our usual luck, talking movies doubtless will reveal that our favorite villain has a high tenor.

The New Statesmen

IT was Locke, the great economist and philosopher who wrote, "The purpose of business is to keep a man occupied for the prosperity of the Commonwealth."

Locke's definition of business is being applied today as never before. The engineer and the scientist have become the statesmen of a new State that is industrial in form and economic in purpose.

In its contribution to the general well-being of the public, it is doubtful if any industry of the world has rendered a greater service than the electrical industry.

That America today enjoys living advantages approached by no other country is due in no small measure to the fact that American manufacturers and workmen have at their command more electric power than is available to all the rest of the world.

Virginia Public Affairs Members Argue Religion

Religion In Politics Is Subject Of Warm Debate In University Meeting

CHAIRMAN HALTS WARM ARGUMENTS

(International News Service)

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 17—A debate over religion in politics put new fire today in the usually decorous proceeding of the University of Virginia's Annual Institute of Public Affairs.

The argument grew so warm that listeners either applauded or booed the various statements made by the participants.

Rev. Albert C. Diffenbach of Boston, a Unitarian minister and editor of the Christian Register, touched off the fireworks with an attack on the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith. He said a Catholic should not be elected president, and exhorted the people not to hide behind the prohibition issue to cover their views on the religious question.

Demonstration Quieted

Several persons replied to Diffenbach.

"I am going to vote for Gov. Smith to show that this country is big enough not to be dedicated to by bigotry," said John S. Bryan, Richmond publisher.

"If the political parsons carry the South against Smith they will set back the spirit of liberty and education development of the south for years," retorted Prof. John H. Latane of Johns Hopkins University.

To quiet the demonstration that threatened to disrupt the meeting, Victor Rosawater, chairman, abruptly halted debate on the question after he had first limited the time of each speaker.

Colored Motion Pictures Soon To Be On Market

Demonstration Of Improved Color Movies Is Made In New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Simplified motion pictures in natural colors, for use in homes will be placed on the market within thirty days, it was announced today by Frederick T. O'Grady, of Flushing, N. Y., their inventor. He announced that Natural Color Pictures, Inc., had been formed to manufacture and market the device.

A demonstration of the improved color movies, before experts, showed many advantages, it was said, over the colored motion picture film, in that many duplicates can be made from the original negative as with ordinary film, and a picture of full theatre size may be produced.

Pictures also can be taken with ordinary fast lenses under any light conditions which permit present day commercial or amateur motion pictures, and at a comparatively small expense.

The two principal differences noted in the operation both of the camera and projector, are that a special color filter replaces the ordinary disk shutter and that the film moves through the machine faster than other color motion pictures now in use.

The color filter contains seven color segments, instead of three, the number usually used, and as a result, it is said, a fidelity to natural color and distinctness, are obtained that never have been equalled by other processes.

TERRIBLE PAINS CAUSED HER TO CRY FOR HOURS

Mercer Road Husband Tells How Ten Herbs Alone Gave Wife Blessed Relief.

Many reports are being received telling how Ten Herbs is helping local men and women back to health, says the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of people of all ages and stations in life. In most cases Ten Herbs seems to have a cleansing, soothing, correcting action on the entire system, often assisting Nature in such a manner that the user soon feels better in every way and is eventually benefited so greatly that he is willing publicly to recommend this new herbal compound. It is nothing unusual for Ten Herbs to give relief after many other medicines have been tried in vain.

"Ten Herbs was the only medicine I found that gave my wife relief from the awful pains she used to have," was the statement of Mr. George Crawford, Route 5, Mercer Road, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man. "Before using your medicine, she had terrible pains all through her body, especially in her limbs and ankles," continued Mr. Crawford, who is a moulder. "These pains would be so severe that she would cry for hours at a time. She could hardly get around. She used different kinds of liniments and internal medicines. Some of these medicines upset her stomach, with the result that she lost all appetite and her whole system became out of order.

"I read about Ten Herbs and decided to get her a bottle. From the very first she began to improve, and is now rid of those awful pains. Her limbs are no longer swollen. She has a better appetite and her whole system seems to have been benefited. We gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

RAVENNA ACTS TO TAX RACES

Council Moves To Get Ten Per Cent Of Gate Receipts At Local Meets

RAVENNA, O., Aug. 17.—Anticipating the inauguration of running race meets in Ravenna, city council at a special meeting late Wednesday night passed an ordinance providing a 10 per cent tax on gate receipts at such meets here.

The ordinance is said to have the approval of race promoters.

Inauguration of racing here is said to be favored by a group of Ravenna business men and negotiations are now under way for the leasing of the Portage county fair grounds to John Morris of Columbus and others.

Authorities have made no announcement of their stand on betting but it is declared that a "contribution" system similar to the one in use at the Bainbridge track might be attempted.

Jennie Goes Back To Her Farm Home

Delusion About City Life Quickly Fades; Police Return Her To Home

Jennie Czubek, aged 15, who lives on a farm somewhere between Pulaski and New Bedford, was suddenly struck with the wanderlust Thursday afternoon. To the city she would go, to seek her fortune. She was tired of farm life. Cows are prosaic things at the best. They do not stimulate, as does the hustle of the city.

So Thursday afternoon Jennie came to New Castle, her worldly belongings packed neatly in a worn handbag, her face shiny. She would get a job; she would be an emancipated woman.

All evening, all night Jennie wandered about the streets, seeking that job. This morning Officer Wysner saw her crying. Delusion had her in its grips. She wanted to go home; she wanted to milk the cows again.

Jennie was brought to the police station. The constable of Pulaski was called on the phone. He came for Jennie and took her back to the cows and chickens.

AKRON COMING TO PLAY NEW CASTLE

Doubleheader Here Saturday

West Pittsburg Will Play "Centennials" In Preliminary Tilt

BRECKENRIDGE AND FOSTER MAY PITCH

BASEBALL is carded for Centennial field Saturday afternoon, and fans who pass through the turnstiles will see a twin bill in which West Pittsburg and Akron will play the New Castle O. & P. team.

According to the dope about the baseball rialto, the West Pittsburg aggregation has a brilliant twirler in Breckenridge, and he will be pitted against New Castle in the first game.

Akron will play the last half of the bill, and having defeated the Centennials in a 21-inning game, perhaps the longest played this season by any team, it is bound to be attractive.

Last week the Akron team played the Pittsburgh Pirates and lost, four to one. Big Jim Vaughn was put on the mound in the last half of the game and hurled good ball.

Manager George Textor has not selected his twirlers for the twin bill, but Foster, the 17-year-old school boy sensation, may get a chance to pitch against West Pittsburg.

Traveling Through Ohio

During the past week the Centennials have been doing a hop-skip-and-jump around the baseball rialto, and have been competing with the Homestead Grays, which is proving a mighty good meal ticket for the Centennials.

The Grays turned in a victory last Saturday and followed it up with another at Columbus, and inasmuch as their first half pennant does not mean much financially, the Centennials will be anxious to set back both the West Pittsburg and Akron teams.

Foster Bears Watching

On the New Castle team is a galaxy of stars not to be found on any other outfit in the O. & P. League. Among them are Leonard, Grimes, Gibson, Mosely and last but not least, the new find of George Textor, one Foster, a 17-year-old school boy.

Foster has pitched several good games for New Castle, and it is reported that his twirling has already attracted the attention of minor league team managers. He hails from Franklin and may get into the line-up against West Pittsburg at 2:15 p. m.

Dale Marshall Benefit Game Tonight, Twilight Teams Offer Services

Clifton Flats And Edenburg To Battle Tonight At Centennial Field

Game Called For 6:30 O'clock; Proceeds Go To Help Blind Youngster

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock at Centennial Field, the Clifton Flats team of the American section and the Edenburg team of the National section of the Lawrence County Twilight league will play a benefit game for the Dale Marshall fund.

The cause is a worthy one and the teams gladly donated their services. Bennie McCann and Joe Diana two of the Twilight loop officials have consented to work the game free of charge.

One thousand tickets have been printed and they are going fast according to Harry White, manager of the Clifton Flats team. There is a keen interest in this game, and a fine crowd is expected to witness the fray.

Field Donated

The officials of Centennial field, have donated the O. & P. League ball park for the game, as their contribution to the Marshall fund.

Johnny Byak will likely go to the mound for the Clifton Flats team with Jada Hofmeister assigned to the pitching duties for the Edenburg team. Both teams are fighting for the pennant in their respective leagues and a fast game is anticipated. Both teams have several stars adorning their rosters, and the fans can rest assured that they will witness a first class game.

Any team desiring the Clifton Flats team for a Dale Marshall benefit fund game, can arrange for a game by calling Williard Stitt at 5786.

Harry White, manager of the Clifton Flats team is very enthusiastic over the game for tonight and asks that a good crowd turn out and help Dale Marshall.

Football Garb In New Colors Coming Season

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 17.—When the football season breaks out in the fall like a rash, the color schemes of a number of leading New England college elevens will have undergone a complete metamorphisis.

Football fans will rub their eyes in wonderment when the elevens of Boston college and Holy Cross, the sworn rivals of the gridiron, take the field, because the color scheme so long familiar will be changed so as to be hardly recognizable.

Holy Cross used to come down to Boston garbed in blue. Their colors were purple and white. A change was made, the blue was discarded and now Holy Cross is purple from headguards to stockings, with big white numerals carrying out the color scheme.

The new football togs at Boston college, believed to have been designed by Head Coach Joe McKenny, will make the B. C. eleven one of the most colorful aggregations in the land. In the first place that old maroon and gold color scheme has been scrapped. The team will have golden jersies, with maroon shoulders cut into the jersey along the Western Conference idea, and the gummy stripes on sides and center will also be maroon. These maroon stripes are also to have a gold stripe.

The stockings are to be gold also, with two or three bars of maroon. As a fitting top for the new "creation" the Boston gridders will wear maroon helmets.

Even Harvard, long set against the idea of placing numerals on the players, not only spread big white numbers on the Crimson jersies in the Yale game back in 1923, but has since decked out its teams in crimson pants, crimson helmets, crimson stockings and even crimson hand protectors.

Dartmouth too added the touch of green helmets to make the big "wahoo-wah" Indian from Hanover sartorially splendid.

Tufts has worn white colored helmets.

East-West Tennis Tournament Starts

Youthful Stars Will Have Chance To Shine With Tilden And Hunter Out

(International News Service)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Youthful lawn tennis stars will have an opportunity to shine in the East-West championship intersectional lawn tennis matches which began today on the turf court in the First Hills stadium of the West Side Tennis Club. All this comes through the disbarment of "Big Bill" Tilden from a place on the representative Eastern team because of his suspension and the "strike" of Francis T. Hunter, Tilden's Davis Cup teammate, who has refused to play in the intersectional matches because of Big Bill's disbarment.

With Tilden and Hunter absent, the East will take the court anything but a favorite to overcome the West.

More Holes-In-One

By Feg Murray

Are "aces" on the links the result of luck or skill? Can they be produced by accuracy or are they merely accidents? Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen have made only one hole-in-one apiece, but Sandy Herd, Rowland Jones and Tom Washington have made seventeen each!

There are about 1,400 holes-in-one made in the United States each year, yet out of this number probably only two land in the cup on the fly, without first striking the ground. In a foursome at Van Courtlandt Park, New York City, a year or two ago, Charles J. O'Connell, Jr. made an ace at the eleventh hole, the ball carrying the full distance without any roll. No. 11 is a water hole about 150 yards long.

At Hamilton, Bermuda, last March 2nd, the natives thought that the height of something or other had happened when James Shevlin, of Glen Cove, N. Y., and Howard Hiegel, of Reigelsville, Pa., halved a hole-in-one. They were playing the 182 yard No. 8 hole of the Prospect Golf Club course, and Shevlin, using a driving iron, got his "one" first Hiegel used a midiron and did exactly the same thing a moment afterward. The feat is all the more remarkable because the No. 8 hole is built in a hollow and the tee shot is blind.

A hole was halved in one twice in England in 1925, two women doing it once, and two Americans, George Stewart and Fred Spellmeyer, each got an ace in a match at Forest Hills, N. J. in October, 1919. Then Jesse Baugh and Earl Aldridge got credit for halving the fifth hole at Fort Worth, Texas, a few years later, while Norman Frankel and A. E. Booth did the ninth hole each in one stroke in a foursome at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, New York on another occasion. This last incident is the only case on record of a foursome halving a hole in one, although two partners in a foursome got successive aces in England last August.

Droegenmuller, the Northwestern University pole-vaulter, did pretty well to get himself and that name over the bar at 13 feet, 9 inches.

Fight Centers At St. Louis

New York And St. Louis In Three-Day Series At Latter City

LEADERSHIP OF LEAGUE AT STAKE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The hot National League fight centers today in St. Louis, where the league-leading Cardinals start a three-game series with the second-place Giants. The New Yorkers must win two of these crucial contests to stay in the race, as they are still 3 ½ games behind the Red Birds.

Chicago, and not St. Louis, has been John McGraw's chief source of woe this year. The Giants have won but two games in the Windy City all season, and captured only one of the three games played with the Cubs this week. Ex-Giants cost them the other two contests. A hit by Freddy Maguire beat them on Wednesday and yesterday Art Nehf, discarded by McGraw two years ago, had no trouble in registering a 6 to 2 victory over them.

St. Louis also is finding the going rocky. Three Cardinal pitchers—Rhem, Haines and Haid—were given a 9 to 4 shellacking by the lowly Boston Braves yesterday. Big Ed Brandt pitched for Boston and Lance Richbourg drove in six runs in his first three times at bat with a homer, a triple and a double. Heinie Mueller, making his first appearance with the Braves, got two hits against his old club.

The Yanks and the Athletics finally emerged from their batting slumps, Buster Gehrig smacked three doubles while Waite Hoyt was limiting the White Sox to four hits, winning 11 to 1.

The A's nicked three Detroit pitchers for seventeen hits and overwhelmed the Tigers 18 to 6, scoring nine runs in the second canto. Simmons, Fox, McManus and Hargrave hit for the circuit.

Although hit hard, the lion-hearted Burleigh Grimes hung up his 21st victory of the season for Pittsburgh, 11 to 6, when the Bucs landed on Brooklyn for five runs in the eighth. Pewee Waner contributed four hits.

The Phillies are stepping out of character on their present western tour. Led by Sothern, who got four hits, they lambasted three Cincinnati hurlers for 22 safeties and swamped the Reds under a 13 to 4 score. Miligan, ex-Cornell pitcher, hung up his first victory for the Phils.

Four runs in the ninth staked Cleveland to a 10 to 8 win over the Red Sox. The Browns smothered Washington, 7 to 2, in an eight-inning affair.

Cen. Christians Tie Mahoning M. E.

The Central Christians and Mahoning M. E. in the New Castle Church league played a 5-5 tie game last night on the seventh ward field. The game was halted in the seventh on account of darkness.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Wilson and Sheik, with honors about even. Both teams tallied a pair of runs in the seventh to bring the game to a deadlock.

Slovaks To Play Wampum Tonight

The Wampum team and the Slovak A. C. will play a postponed Twilight league game tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Cedar street field.

Brooks and Price are assigned to handle this game. The Wampum team is now leading the league, due to the upset of the Clifton Flats team by the Slovaks last night.

Gene Tunney Sails For Europe Alone

"Dempsey Too Busy"—Flynn

"It will be impossible for Jack Dempsey to referee the Johnny Datto-U. S. Carpentier bout. He is working night and day on his play"—(signed) Leo. P. Flynn.

And thus went a big surprise planned by Bill Jolly for the fight fans of New Castle.

A few days ago he wired Flynn asking him to book Dempsey to appear here Monday, if it could be accomplished.

Jack is appearing with Estelle Taylor in a new play and according to Flynn cannot leave New York at this time.

Recently Jack found time to get away to third man in the Risko-Squires bout at Detroit which gave Jolly the idea.

Denies Report That He Will Mary Miss Josephine Lauder In Italy

Plans To Keep His Appointment With Thornton Wilder, Novelist, On Long Walk

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Gene Tunney sailed Thursday for Europe—alone.

The retired heavyweight champion departed on the Mauretania of the Cunard line unmarried to Miss Mary Josephine "Polly" Lauder, his fiancee and heiress to a $50,000,000 estate, to keep his walking tour engagement with Thornton Wilder, novelist.

A large number of Tunney's friends were at the dock to see him off, but Miss Lauder would not brave the avalanche of reporters and cameramen, even for a last glimpse of Gene.

Gene laughingly denied reports that he and Miss Lauder would be married in Italy, asserting that his fiancee would not even be in Europe while he was there. He said:

"The date for the wedding has been set and that's all I can say. I am a Catholic and intend to remain in faith."

This strengthened reports that Tunney and Miss Lauder, an Episcopalian were to be married by the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, rector of Holy Cross church here. The time of the wedding, it was said, would be in the fall.

Gene denied that he had been approached by Morris Gest with an offer of a star part in a Shakespearean spectacle.

Tennis Tourney Nears Completion

Semi-Finals In Northwestern Pennsylvania Tournament At Erie

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 17.—Semi-final matches in all divisions were to be played today in the northwestern Pennsylvania tennis tourney championships being held here.

Two Pittsburghers will meet two Erieites today in the semi-finals of the men's singles.

The defending champion, Byron Baur, Erie, entered the semi-finals Wednesday and has a day of rest to gather his full strength for his semi-final match with a fellow townsman, Dan Smith. In the other semi-final match the two netmen from the Steel city, McCaskey and Berghame, will fight it out to enter the finals.

Smith went into the final four yesterday by defeating Bob Keck, Oil City, 6-1, 6-2. McCaskey upset Joe Smith, Erie, 6-1, 6-0. Berghame disposed of Morton Eschner, Erie, 6-1, 6-4.

The women's titleholder of western Pennsylvania, Miss Jarvis, Pittsburgh, and Miss Gillespie of Erie, have bowled over all opposition in impressive fashion and are favored to meet in the finals tomorrow.

Farrell-Sarazen At Pittsburgh In Exhibition Play

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—Officials at the Shannopin Country Club expect to handle an immense crowd this afternoon when Johnny Farrel, national open golf champion, and Gene Sarazen, former national open champion and a former Pittsburgher, match their skill against Charley Manning, Shannopin professional, and Wallace Thompson, club champion in 1926. The match will be a best ball affair for eighteen holes.

Datto Has Real Knockout Punch

No Difference How Fast Fighting Is, He Never Betrays Feeling

SLUGGING MATCHES ARRANGED FOR BOWL

JOHNNY Datto, the Filipino, a silent youngman who is following the footsteps of the late Pancho Villa, is coming to Jolly Bowl Monday night to fight U. S. Carpentier, the flashiest featherweight in the Pittsburgh district.

And, as punch is the thing demanded by fans here, it is probable that the fight will either end in a knockout or else the featherweights will be busy collecting themselves from the floor, as it is going to be a battle filled with thrills.

Datto is the type of fighter that makes the other fellow fight, but in this case Carpentier doesn't need to be forced to fight, as he has appeared here, gave satisfaction and right now is rated as the best featherweight around Pittsburgh.

Terrific Puncher

To many of the fans hereabouts this may not mean much, but to the fans in other climes it does, and were this bout in Pittsburgh, it would attract the eye of thousands of more fans than it will be possible to crowd into the Jolly Bowl.

Ever since the Jolly Bowl was built, Bill Jolly has angled for the services of the Oriental, and only a few days ago matched Datto with Carpentier. Red Mason, manager of the smart Pittsburgher, didn't lose any time signing along the dotted line.

He knows that the Filipino is good, headed for Madison Square Garden, and a victory by Carpentier would displace the silent Oriental in the affection of fans, who have been watching him bowl over foes like a bowler in an alley.

Tilden Has Not Accepted Money

Joins Class Of "Unpaid Reporter" To Get Around Amateur Rule

GUILT EXISTS ONLY WHEN MONEY IS PAID

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—It began to look today as though Mr. Will Tilden is not as smart as some people think he is. He's smarter.

Will, they say, has found a way to "beat his case" when he comes up before the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. one week from tonight and, to a man on a limb, the idea seems fool-proof. It is understood that he hasn't been paid to date for disputed articles at Wimbledon. According to Wallace Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis, one of those who drafted the player-writer rule and a die-hard friend of Will's, he is likely to be very careful not to be paid for them either now or forever henceforth. The rule specifically states that a violation, to be a violation, must be "for pay or consideration."

"It wouldn't surprise me in the least if Tilden refused to accept money or any other consideration for the articles that are under fire," Merrihew declared. "I know personally that he received neither money nor consideration while he was abroad and I am just as certain that he has accepted neither since his return. I feel I can also say for him that he has no intention of sacrificing his status by receiving anything at any time for the articles he wrote while abroad."

Rule Not Violated

This statement was confirmed more or less, at the office of Tilden's syndicate, those in charge declaring that they had neither heard from Tilden except for the receipt of the articles he wrote nor communicated with him in any way since he left America.

Tilden's defense next week thus can take either of two courses or both. He can first make the executive committee prove that the text of his articles was an actual violation of the player-writer rule, a matter that seems to be open to reasonable doubt in some minds; then, if convicted on that count, he can calmly inform any who may be interested that the rule couldn't have been violated, either in spirit or in fact, because the articles were written free, gratis and for the downright fun of it.

Call this an evasion if you like; it doesn't alter the fact that the rule is quite clear in the matter of stating that guilt only follows when pay or consideration is involved. In this instance, free writing is much like free love. It just doesn't count.

Still After Bill

Some may profess to be amused, too, at the idea that Tilden will spurn the vulgar dollars not only publicly but privately as well. The fact of the matter is that there isn't enough of them involved in the transaction to achieve actual vulgarity. My understanding is that Will was to receive $700 for his endeavors and, while the amount in question may not be more than one hundred times all the money in the world to some of us, to a man with a private income of $25,000, a business income of $15,000 more and the privilege of living free for about eight months of the year, it is or should be mere nothing.

"Meanwhile, however, there are ominous mutterings off stage of "other charges presented" against Tilden at the private meeting of the advisory committee last Tuesday. It is also alleged that Dr. Sumner Hardy has "unearthed some other violations of amateurism out on the Pacific coast" and that their nature "may prove startling to Tilden's supporters."

Well, of course, if they have gone and dug up the lad's skeleton or something and they can make it live, he might as well take the $700 without further demur. He could use it to buy choice seats at the tennis matches this fall.

America will do even better at the Olympic games when they include the things we do best—such as flagpole sitting and pie eating.

DATTO HAS REAL KNOCKOUT PUNCH

is something of a mystery, he goes in for golf playing, wields a tennis racquet like a Tilden and is rather accomplished as a guitarist, a new coinage. His auto is striped like the new style of sweater coats now worn.

Carpentier believes in making all his music with the boxing gloves, and as a boxer he has a left hand that is as good as a rapier and anyone who hasn't might as well quite the game. At any rate, there'll be a knockdown, drag 'em out fight Monday.

Belmont vs. Hanlon

Fans are anxiously awaiting the appearance of the Farrell boy, Frankie Rio, who battles Frankie Sunday. Although Rio lost to Billy Wallace here, he is well liked by the fans.

Jimmy Belmont and Johnny Hanlon are a couple of rough and ready gents who start 'em from the floor and let them land where they will. Action is certain in this bout.

The ring feud of Young Harris and Jack McCarthy will come to a point when they answer the bell. They will weigh about 144, and they ought to furnish a pleasing bout.

There will be one other bout on the card.

Betless Racing For California Coffroth Plan

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Returning to the scenes of his triumphs as promoter of boxing bouts, James "Sunny Jim" Coffroth will attempt to re-establish horse racing as a major California sport.

Coffroth, who turned away from boxing when twenty round bouts were outlawed in California, to horse racing at Tiajuana, Mexico, just across the Mexican border, and made millions in his new line, will attempt to put across a racing meet where California millionaire horse enthusiasts failed.

His initial try will be a twenty day meet at Tanforan race track near San Bruno, twenty miles south of San Francisco. There a few years ago several rich Californians who follow the sport of the kings, built a beautiful oval, a grand stand, stables and a club house and held two meets. They were unsuccessful. Sports followers wagged their heads and said that "betless racing" could not be made to pay.

Twenty Day Meet.

But "Sunny Jim" Coffroth proposes to do that very thing. In announcing that he would open the track October 13 for a twenty day meet, he emphasized that it would be a "betless" meeting and would be conducted "within the law."

The most recent attempt to open the track witnessed an attempt to establish the certificate system of betting as legal in California. The courts ruled against the promoters in a test and they decided not to risk their money on a meet.

But Coffroth will not attempt to establish this or any other form of betting. He believes that high class racing will attract a following of around 20,000 persons in the bay cities and that the sport can be re-established through the medium of high class attractions. He hopes to include the ten best horses in the country in the meet to be held here this fall.

It will precede the opening of his Tijuana season and enable horse owners all over the country to enjoy a longer season on the west coast and thus induce them to send their best westward.

Rebuilding Plant.

Virtually the entire Tiajuana track management will come here to conduct the meet for Coffroth who will personally direct it. Plans have been made to put the Tanforan plant in the finest shape for the opening of the season.

Coffroth's plan to re-establish "amateur" racing here has been greeted sympathetically by San Francisco sport writers who recall the success of the fistic classics he promoted here and they indicate a belief that he can put it over.

Efforts to legalize pari-mutuel betting in California were defeated by the electorate within the past year, hence it is believed that Coffroth is basing his attempting to restore racing to the state on the expectation that "betless racing" can be made to pay.

Slovak A. C. Wins From Flats 4 To 3

The Slovak A. C. upset the dope bucket and kicked the pennant aspirations of the Clifton Flats team in the dust Thursday night at the Flats field by shoving over a 4 to 3 verdict in a well played game. The Flats used 12 men in an effort to emerge victorious.

Lazar, on the knoll for the Slovaks, had the Clifton Flats team eating out of his hand and gave them but five hits and fanned three men. Coates and Hiler labored for the Flats and were found for seven hits.

The hitting of Fabian and M. Gonda featured for the Slovaks, with VanEman and P. Ryan the best sluggers for the Flats. The Slovaks played a brilliant game in the field, while the Flats had two errors.

SORDS POINTS

Trade Helped Alvin And Browns

By JACK SORDS.
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

The trading of Pitcher Alvin Chowder by Washington Senators to the St. Louis Browns last year turned cut to be a real break for both Crowder and St. Louis.

Crowder wasn't much of a success with the Senators last year mainly because of his wildness. But he did pitch one good game. That was a two-hit, shut-out affair against Philadelphia. Dan Howley was convinced right there that any pitcher who could hold a team like the Athletics to two hits was well worth experimenting with And when the grand housecleaning of St. Louis came along, Dan got his man in trade for Tom Zachary.

Alvin got off on the wrong foot in his initial start this season, but from then on things were different. After winning two games and losing another he set out on a winning streak that was not to be broken until it had reached ten games.

Crowder like Sam Gray, has been one of the big guns in the advance of the Browns this year. His brand of effectiveness exhibited has put him near the top among American league pitchers.

He began playing six years ago, spending most of his time in the International and Southern leagues. Washington had him at its farm in Birmingham recalling him in 1926. They gave him little chance to show his wares and finally traded him to St. Louis.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

Here's a little prophesy:

The fact that America failed to regain the Davis tennis cup, the severe trouncing of Uncle Sam's boys in the Olympic games, the futile effort of Mr. Thomas Heeney to give his bride a heavyweight champion for a husband, the loss of the national open golf title by Bobby Jones and last night's losses at bridge will be forgotten the same as last year's boss if—

The National and American league races go into September with a margin of but a game or two between the top teams.

You can bank on that.

And it wouldn't hurt sport in general were that to happen.

Major league baseball has been made to order—for the other sports—the last several years. What with the Giants and the Yankees hogging the pennants and the Yankees trouncing the National league entry four straight games to top off a long run of victories.

Frequent changes in managers in earnest efforts to revive interest in the other teams if not to rebuild those clubs and strengthen competition, have not increased interest in the game permanently.

Along with this general situation has come the passing of many of the old heroic figures who played a major part in keeping interest in baseball at a high pitch. Walter Johnson stepped out of major league ball. Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and half a dozen other brilliant figures of the game a decade and less ago are still wearing uniforms, but have outlived their day. Fans haven't the inclination to turn out, day after day to hold "I knew him when" fanning bees.

But now with the Athletics threatening the mighty Yanks day after day and the Giants and Cardinals running neck and neck in the National league fans are beginning to pay attention to the men who are playing the leading parts in the efforts of the Mackmen, the Cards and McGraw's team, and indirectly in the outstanding stars of the other clubs in both leagues—who have it in their power to make or break any one of the contending clubs.

Andy Cohen who drew momentary interest as "the man who is filling Hornsby's shoes" now stands out as one of the men who is playing a leading role in the Giant's fight for the flag—a bitter fight. With the Giants getting nowhere in the race Freddy Lindstrom's work at third might have gone unnoticed by all except the few close followers of the team.

The return of Grover Alexander to the game recently after a layoff due to illness, meant more than a victory to the Cardinals. It meant the holding, momentarily at least, of the slight lead the team had over McGraw's outfit.

George Haas, Jimmy Foxx and Ossie Orwoll newcomers in the Athletic ranks have stepped out of the class of promising youngsters. They loom up as the men on whom Connie Mack is depending—along with his pitching staff—to carry the Mackmen to their first pennant in 14 long years.

All of which means that out of this season's play, regardless of the outcome, the fans will build a new set of heroes. And hero worship is a part of any sport.

Presbyterians And Hakoah Deadlocked

The league leading Central Presbyterian team of the Church league played a 2-2 tie game with the Hakoah team at the Colonial grounds on Thursday night. The game was halted in the fifth on account of darkness.

The Hakoah team found Grannis in the first inning for enough hits to produce two runs, but Funkhouser relieved Grannis and finished the game by fanning ten men and gave but one hit. Friedman on the hill for the Hakoah team hurled good ball, fanning eight and giving but four hits. A home run by Battley in the fourth frame tied the score. Bush was the best slugger with a pair of singles.

Nunn-Trainor Tie For Medalist Honors

They Will Be Up Among The Leaders When Championship Has Been Decided

William M. Nunn, former champion of the New Castle Field club, and George M. Trainor, youthful golfer of the Field club, who last year was runnerup for the championship honors, have turned in their qualifying rounds in this year's championship and are tied for the honor of medalist in this year's championship tournament.

Both Nunn and Mr. Trainor did the thirty six holes of their qualifying rounds in 156, which is considered a remarkably good showing on the local course with its par of 73.

This means that Messrs. Nunn and Trainor will be compelled to play off this tie in order that it may be determined, who is the medalist and also their respective positions in the first flight of the championship round.

First Christians Trip Grace & Cong.

Campbell on the mound for the First Christians came mighty near a no-hit, no-run game last night at the Scotland Lane field, as the First Christians downed the Grace & Congregational team 5 to 1. Campbell permitted but one hit, a scratch blow.

The Christians hopped on Jones in the first inning for a pair of runs, and kept their lead throughout. Campbell had the Grace & Congregational team at his mercy and fanned nine men. Paul Hoskins with three hits, including a triple, was the feature hitter of the fray, with Claude Patton having a pair of hits, one of them a double. Both teams played brilliant ball in the field, going errorless.

Grimes Chalks Up Another Victory

Pittsburgh Wins From Brooklyn By Belated Drive In Eighth

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—Spotting the Dodgers three runs in the first two innings and permitting them to double this number in the seventh, the Pirates came from the rear yesterday and after chalking up five runs in the eighth had more than sufficient to win, the final score being 11 to 6. Incidentally it was the twenty first victory for Burleigh Grimes.

Hargreaves had his nose broken when one of Elliott's slants hit him almost between the eyes and Hemsley who caught in his place for a time was banished from the game and Johnny O'Connell got a chance to handle Grimes' delivery and he did it in fine style.

Elliott pitched six innings, Clark one and Doak went one inning for Brooklyn. The box score: SPORT.

Pitticisms

Just a couple months more and the hunting season will be on in full blast. Hospitals predict a banner year.

Some day a law will be passed forcing hunting parties to provide their own stretcher and bandages.

The jack rabbits can't wait until the season opens. They plan to spend the winter laughing up gun barrels.

Shooting a rabbit is simple. All you have to do is aim the gun at him and hit your own toe.

The only difference between hunting and war is that you shoot people without first joining the army.

Sometimes when amateurs get so good they barely miss rabbits they go to Africa to be chased by lions.

Africa is a great place. It is full of wild beasts and diamonds. But the wild beasts are a lot easier to find.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Bullish enthusiasm was again exhibited in the aggressive buying of the industrial and motor shares at the beginning of trading today. A $50,000,000 decrease in the volume of outstanding brokers' loans was an agreeable surprise to the bulls, who made most of the opportunity to draw the lines close about the entrapped bears in a few of the fast-moving speculative favorites.

A block of 10,000 shares of United States Steel started the day for that stock at a price of 148, the peak of the current movement. American Can and American Smelting, two of yesterday's star performers, were ready to perform again, as also were the motor shares, the airplane stocks and the specialties. A flurry in Graham-Paige Motor sent that stock up about 6 points to 44¾, an advance of about 12 points since yesterday afternoon. Hupp Motors also continued its spectacular forward movement.

Buying of Graham-Paige was attributed to a group of powerful market operators preparatory to the merging of the company with the Chrysler or Studebaker combinations.

Curtiss Aeroplane reached a new high at 110 in its spectacular market course, while National Cash Register and Savage Arms were halted on profit talking. The rails were again in good demand, with New York Central leading the move in the investment railroad stock class. Profit taking was again in evidence in the second hour.

Call money was in good supply, with the rate up fractionally at 5 per cent.

Carlos Castro Balda, above, photographed in jail, intimate friend of Jose de Toral, young Mexican cartoonist, awaiting execution for the assassination of Gen. Only the man who furnished the gun to the cartoonist continues to elude their grasp.

To Add Firemen For New Engine

Four Additional Firemen To Be Needed To Man New Machine

Council today adopted Councilman D. O. Davies' ordinance increasing the paid fire department of New Castle to 40 members, exclusive of Fire Chief Lynn and his assistant, Stockman. Councilman Reeves voted against the ordinance, declaring that "the city must cut down expenses."

Davies explained that the city has purchased new equipment and the increase is needed and justified.

The ordinance passed.

As one member of the department is seriously ill and the ranks are depleted by vacations, council also gave Davies permission to temporarily employ Norman McFarland.

Unfinished Work On City Contracts

Councilmen Declare Work On Some Of Contracts Not Completed

"I wonder what has happend to Olsen?"

This was the query of Councilman Reeves during formal council session at city hall today.

Councilmen gazed at their colleague, who continued:

"There is lots of unfinished work here, for instance in Shaw street and Leasure avenue."

"Olsen Contracting company should be notified," said Mayor Gillespie.

"They have pulled stakes," informed Reeves.

"There is not much money in the jobs here," said Burns.

"I don't care about that. He should not come here and leave things undone," said Reeves which furnishes the question, why don't council make him finish the jobs if the allegation is true.

Planes Maneuver Over San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 17.—Exhibition of various types of airplanes and equipment at the western aviation progress show today conclude the two day celebration marking the dedication of Lindbergh field, San Diego's new tidewater airport, and the silver anniversary of American aviation.

While 25,000 persons looked on from the grandstands yesterday, hundreds of commercial, army and navy planes maneuvered over the city without mishap.

Highway Signs Will Be Erected In New Castle

Autoists passing through New Castle soon will know by properly designated signs which is the correct routes to follow on the government and state roads.

Cy Horner, police chief, following a conference with H. W. Lightner, state highway department, recommended that council buy the necessary signs.

Council concurred in the wishes of the police chief and within the near future the signs wil be bought and erected at a cost approximating $200.

Urge Swimming In School Work To Save Lives

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of the State Department of Public Health, gives figures to show that for every girl between the ages of 15 and 19 years at least ten boys were drowned during the past year.

Dr. Dickie believes every town where facilities for water sports are available should employ a public swimming instructor, and that if this is not possible, civic bodies or clubs should shoulder the financial burden. He bases his recommendation on the appalling loss of life each vacation season.

With 70 percent of sports fatalities due to drowning, and nearly 25 per cent of all drowning accidents linked with recreation, Dr. Dickie believes California, as the playground of the nation, must take the lead in making the water safe for youth and age alike.

Would Teach Swimming

"Knowledge of swimming should be considered as vital a part of education of those who frequent the water as anything in the school curriculum," the health mentor declared, impressed by the fact that while drowning fatalities were cut in half between 1900 and 1920, there has been no decrease since.

Loss of life from water accidents, Dr. Dickie pointed out, is diminishing rapidly in cities where public pools are maintained, and particularly where public swimming instructors are employed.

Drowning constitutes more than 35 per cent of all public accident fatalities, and 90 per cent of these occur in public places. The water toll is twice that of railroads and four times that accredited to fire-arms.

Boys this year will continue to be boys and lead the water fatality toll by a great majority. Under five, 450 out of 675 children drowned yearly are boys; between 5 and 9 526 out of 700 are of the male gender; and between 10 and 14, out of a total of 900, but 175 are girls.

From 15 to 19 is the dangerous age. Some 1125 youths and maidens are scheduled to go down three times in the United States this year and 980 of them will be boys.

Prudence rules with the passing of the teens, but men continue to be chance-takers. Seven hundred sixty out of 825 persons between the ages of 20 and 24 drowned are men.

In Old Age

A sharp decline in the drowning fatality toll begins with the age of 25. From that year to the thirtieth, the annual death total averages around 500 with about 440 of them men.

As the thirties are spanned and the forties approach, man and women begin to heed the advice "don't go in the water," or else are better swimmers, but the male proportion of deaths continues to mount despite a declining total.

Women either are mermaids or confine bathing to bathtubs by the age of 75, but not so the male. Twenty-five past the age of 80 find watery graves yearly, while records show that a scattering few centenarians have failed to learn caution in the first "hardest hundred years."

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Speaking of chickens, which we were not, but might as well, this chicken farm layout the commissioners have installed at the city-county home has the court house employes on the qui vive, wherever and whatever that particular thing is.

Now putting in a flock or herd of chickens might seem a simple matter, but actually it was a matter of some moment. P. O. Elder thinks rather well of Leghorns, while Tom McCullough allows that there isn't anything quite as tasty as a silver laced Wyandotte. Cal Boyd on the other hand runs to Rhode Island Reds and for a time the matter of what breed or flavor of chicken would be given the honor loomed up as the rock upon which the commissioners might split.

They finally compromised upon barred rocks or as you may call them Plymouth Rocks. These chickens are a hardy strain, rock ribbed, so to speak, and they get the call. And now every court house attache is asking for a bid to a chicken dinner at the farm.

However, Commissioner Elder has promised that the first chicken dinner from the barred rocks would be in honor of the newspaper men of the county.

The next question is whether or not electric lights will be installed to work the hens at night. This also enters into it. If the municipal golf course goes through, the barred rock hens will have to be quite cautious as to where they lay their eggs.

Some enthusiastic golfer who slices his ball into the rough might accidentally come across a barred rock egg out in the field and attempt to mashie it out to the fairway. You can imagine what a mashie would do to a barred rock egg. And what it would do to a golfer's disposition would be just too bad.

Got a letter from Jimmy Fletcher today. Jimmy is still in the government hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., and says he is improving slowly. On his birthday recently he got so much mail from New Castle that the mailman nearly needed a truck to deliver it. Pat Dempsey is also still in the hospital there, but will likely be home before long. A card addressed to either one of them should go to the Army and Navy hospital, Hot Springs, Ark.

At least one New Castle man has flown with Parker Cramer, the Clarion, Pa. lad who is with Bert Hassell on the flight from Rockford, Ill., to Sweden. Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, was a resident of Clarion when Cramer was flying there and made a number of flights with him.

There was a time when the average young lady shunned sunburn like she did the smallpox. But no more. They seem to invite a mahogany tint on their noses and necks, and now to complete the symphony in brown they are going without stockings.

It's certainly a shame the way these vulgar newspaper men are treating Gene Tunney. They actually have the colossal gall to ask him questions. And his violet like modesty seems to give me a yawn. It hasn't been so many years since editors had to contend with his manager begging them to put his name and picture in the paper. He deliberately sought to be a figure in sport and such figures are usually the result of plenty of publicity. Having acquired that peak in the world of sport which he sought, he now gives the people who made him prominent a well known pushing around. All of which is good for one triple plated laugh. Can you imagine a shipping clerk in Greenwich marrying the heiress to 50 million cold American dollars? Neither can I.

REASON FOR BEING

The American Bar Association decides to raise a $50,000 fund. It will provide a three-year scholarship at a good law school for a college graduate. It will also provide a gold medal to be given each year to the lawyer who has performed the most distinguished service for the advancement of jurisprudence. Now all this gives a special and good reason for the life of an organization. There are, of course, too many organizations. Many of them are mere time-killers. They furnish alibis for men, never quite grown up, to get together and play and laugh about so-called prohibition. Now and then an organization decides to do something definite. That's a good sign.

REAL LIBERALISM

Harper Leech, who writes ably for the Chicago Tribune, speaking of liberalism of thought and writing, refers to "our American brand of Wall Street pinks and their kept liberals who, by the way, conduct most of our reviews and journals of opinion—this country apparently being too poor to maintain a sound and realistic periodical press to represent its virile and nationalist opinion."

These are sharp words and fairly well deserved. We do have a few outspoken periodicals, for the most part badly edited by radicals who can't seem to keep their feet on the ground and who are so extreme in their views as to be useless as leaders. Real liberal opinion, ably expressed, sane comment on American life and manners, by a man who thinks rather than by one who merely foams at the mouth, is devoutly to be desired.

BAD MUSICIANS

Bad musicians should keep away from West Africa. Slitting the mouth of horn blowers who don't do well is a favorite practice among some more or less savage tribes. Drum beaters who don't beat nicely may have their ears cut off or, if they are very bad, may lose their hands. This may all be a bit drastic, but in view of the increasing number of saxaphone players, the attention of the American public is respectfully and somewhat earnestly called to these practices.

BEGGARS

Stories are told about beggars who make large sums daily. Perhaps a few do. Most of them do not. Probably few people really like to beg. Most of them are reduced to that trade by dire circumstances. And better that a few beggars do well than that the American heart should grow too hard.

All that goes up must come down. But contractors must live, so it works just the other way in the case of street paving.

Americanism: Preaching that trials and hardships are necessary in forming character; making life as soft as you can for the kids.

If you cuss the power trust, you're a Bolshevik; if you don't, people think you have found a way to fix the meter.
